Praying and Fighting Mr. Cummings Talks Democracy's Danger Mrs. Parsons Again

Convention Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, June 28.—Democrats, fighting each other instead of getting ready to fight the Republicans, have reached the praying and crying stage.

It is likely that when the Klan or no Klan question comes up as it must do, before the whole convention, the grand old party of Jefferson, Jackson, etc., will reach the fighting stages.

There were signs of fighting today. Praying fighting.

The praying and crying came about as follows:

Homer S. Cummings, asking for an adjournment to give the committee on platform more time to discuss the Klan plank told about the praying in a matter-of-fact way.

At least two reporters, Louis Seibold and this writer, knew of the thing in advance and hoped to have it for a "beat."

But there is always something to spoil your happiness. Cummings had to tell everybody about it.

All through the night, hour after hour, as Mr. Cummings told the convention, the sub-committee on platform and then the entire committee discussed more and more "acrimoniously" to use Mr. Cummings' word "the plank dealing with religious freedom." That is another of Mr. Cummings' expressions.

For the general public it isn't necessary to indulge in euphemisms.

THE Democratic convention is torn up, ripped to pieces, and in the greatest danger of absolute destruction so far as this election goes and perhaps later, by a religious quarrel, full of the deadly hatred that always goes with quarrels about religion.

It is a quarrel between the Ku Klux Klan on one side, representing a part of the Protestant church, and between the Catholics, the Jews, and in the lesser degree the negroes on the other side.

Mr. Cummings went on to say that he had "never witnessed such a scene. One member arose and recited the Lord's Prayer. All united in prayer and at the close, Mr. Bryan (William Jennings), lifted up his voice in an invocation for "divine help."

The convention, intensely interested, broke in for a moment to applaud, and hear Bryan, one of the few chances it has had, that distinguished commoner being heard as much as possible in the background, by modern Democrats, wholly fearful of his influence.

AFTER telling of the praying incident, Mr. Cummings added, "I don't know that I should mention this." A strong young man standing in the aisle beside the Ohio delegation yelled out: "You ought not to mention it. You are making an argument, not giving a report."

A very old white haired man in the Kansas delegation, yelled back, "He's right. It is his duty to tell us."

Mr. Cummings asked for more time, that the committee on resolutions might continue discussion of that Klan plank, and come into the convention with the unanimous report.

IT was clear from Mr. Cummings' earnest manner, that he, like everybody else interested in Democratic success this Fall, is fearful of such a religious fight ON THE FLOOR OF THE CONVENTION HALL as will make any chance of Democratic victory out of the question.

Mr. Cummings was evidently exhausted by the long hours of discussion and struggle with the committee. He told the convention that he had been up yesterday morning until "6 o'clock with the other members of the committee on resolutions and the morning before until 6:30."

That gives you an idea of the sort of fight that is going on behind the scenes.

MR. CUMMINGS said as little as he could say, in order to get the adjournment necessary until 3 in the afternoon. He did not give the full details of that extraordinary scene in the committee on resolutions, with men praying on their knees, and half a dozen of them in tears.

There are bound to be bitterness, tears, prayer and persecution now written on every page of religious warfare.

When Mr. Cummings spoke of the men praying for guidance, in their handling of the Ku Klux Klan plank, one old delegate just below the speaker's platform, burst into tears and buried his face in his handkerchief.

Just what will happen when the religious issue breaks open in the convention, if it is allowed to break there, nobody can predict.

ALL news of the convention's morning session is in that praying and weeping incident.

John Roach Stratton of Calvary Baptist Church prayed for the convention, earnestly, with a white carnation on the left lapel of his coat.

The convention has thus far been prayed for by one Catholic, Cardinal Hayes; one Episcopalian, one Christian Scientist, one Presbyterian and one Baptist. No rabbi has been asked to pray as yet, al-

DEMOCRATS PLATFORM

FAILS TO NAME KLAN IN PLANK

Resolution Only Declares for Freedom of Religion, Speech and Press

New York, June 28.—The principal planks of the Democratic national platform follow:

The Democratic party reaffirms its adherence and devotion to those cardinal principles contained in the Constitution and the precepts upon which our government is founded, that Congress shall make no laws respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances, that the church and the State shall be and remain separate, and that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States.

These principles we pledge ourselves ever to defend and maintain. We insist at all times upon obedience to the orderly process of the law.

TINNEY FEELS LIKE 'FATTY ARBUCKLE'

New York, June 28.—"Now I know how Fatty Arbuckle felt."

Frank Tinney, comedian, wiped a tragic brow. He and Ma Tinney had just been told that the Grand Jury declined to indict him for beating two Follies beauties, Mary and Imogene.

Ma Tinney laughed hysterically. Frank grabbed her in his arms.

$34,742 DRAFT FORGERY IS CHARGED

Inspectors Thomas Towle and George Farrell today arrested George E. Hastings, alias William Lawrence Goff, charged with forgery in presenting a draft for $34,742.38 to Lee, Higginson & Company, State street.

Thepolice allege that on June 18 Hastings, a New Yorker, attempted to negotiate a list of high-grade securities, by presenting to Lee, Higginson & Company a draft on the Mechanics' National Bank of Worcesterthrough h the First National Bank of Boston.

Hastings, who was stopping at a Boston hotel, had a man sent up to see him by the brokerage company, and through him ordered a large amount of stocks and bonds purchased, the police say.

He then went to the office of the company and presented the draft, although the securities were not ready, according to the police.

POLICE IN PISTOL BATTLE WITH AUTO THIEVES IN BROCKTON

ROBBERS DRIVE CAR OVER BANK

Bullets Fly as Gang Clashes With the Bluecoats While Stealing Second Machine

Brockton, June 28. — Auto thieves, after stealing and driving one machine over an embankment, engaged in a revolver battle with Brockton police today in stealing a second car.

The car, with tank full, but with a tire riddled by bullets, was found abandoned.

One of the policemen—Patrolman Eaton—narrowly escaped injury when he dove for the car driven by the fleeing thieves and was hurled to the ground after being dragged on the running board. His fellow officer fired three shots at the machine, whipping the bullets through windshield and rear of the car.

A car owned by James Saunders of the Abington Electric Light and Power Company, parked in City Hall square, just a stone's throw from be stolen. Saunders notified the station of his loss shortly after midnight.

Around 1:30 a. m. a report came into headquarters that some men were driving recklessly and wild on Lowell street. Responding with a squad, the police found Saunders' car abandoned, with its right hand tire ripped off, as from contact with the curbstone while turning a sharp corner.

The officers were informed that the thieves stole another car from the yard of George M. Gunther, No. 455 North Warren avenue, driving it down a three-foot embankment to the street in their anxiety to escape.

MOURNS MOTHER WHO WAS KIDNAPED

AGNES BOUDREAU

IMOGENE ONLY SEEKING CASH, SAYS COMEDIAN

Movie censorship would cut footage on the length of their kiss.

"Completely exonerated," he cried to the motley group at Criminal Courts, who seemed as jubilant as Tinney.

"Apparently the jury didn't believe in glorifying the glorified girls," he said as he hugged Mrs. Tinney. She cuddled in his arms, oblivious of the staring spectators.

"How about Imogene's $100,000 suit?"

"Say," from Tinney, "did you ever think how many homes these glorified girls break up?

"These glorified American girls are the kind that glorify a bankroll, and they were simply after mine. They knew I got $1,500 a week."

COMEDIAN PERSPIRES.

"They like this sort of publicity, they do. Ask Phil Baker, comedian. He is the husband of Vivian Vernon, who is in the Follies with Imogene. That case was a publicity stunt, and today twenty-three men in that room said as much to me when they vindicated me."

Tinney pointed at the Grand Jury chamber like a Shakespearean actor.

The famous comedian could never have worn his blackface make-up in court. Burnt cork would have been washed away by the perspiration he shed as he waited nervously for his entree to the jury room.

Came Imogene to testify, her head high, her eyes ahead as she passed Tinney and his wife. Imogene entered, told her story and left.

IS FREED BY JURY.

Mrs. Tinney kept whispering soft words of encouragement to Broadway's newest caveman. Then a door opened and—

For a star the call should have been "Curtain!" and an orchestra should have blared a welcome, instead it was simply the barber shop signal "Next," and Mr. Tinney passed in.

Later he passed out—greatly relieved.

BRITISH FLIER REACHES BANGKOK

London, June 28.—Lieutenant A. Stuart Maclaren, British flier who is competing against the Americans in a round-the-world flight, arrived at Bangkok, according to a Central News dispatch from there today.

San Francisco, June 28.—Adolph B. Spreckels, nationally known sugar magnate and manufacturer, died at his home today.

WIFE KIDNAPED BY HUSBAND, SAYS MOTHER

That Mrs. Alice Boudreau, thirty, of No. 347 Border street, East Boston, who was spirited away by four men in an auto at Salem Thursday night, was kidnaped by her own husband is the belief of the missing woman's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Fuller, with whom she lived.

Mrs. Fuller says Boudreau and her daughter have been separated several times, but that Mrs. Boudreau has steadfastly refused to get a divorce. She thinks her daughter is now being held until she signs papers to go through with it.

The kidnaping occurred at Mack Park, on the outskirts of Salem, where Mrs. Boudreau and her chum, Mrs. Thomas Elliott, wife of a sea captain, No. 210 Meridian street, East Boston, were sitting in the company of two men, said to be sailors on Captain Elliott's ship.

Four men surprised them and, posing as police officers, pushed Mrs. Boudreau into a waiting auto and sped away.

A little three-year-old daughter, Agnes, mourns the disappearance of her mother.

FIREMAN HURT AT NORTH END BLAZE

One fireman was injured and damage estimated at $2,500 caused by a fire at No. 2-4 Faneuil Hall square today. The injured fireman was Patrick Buckley of Ladder 1, who was taken to the Relief Hospital with a badly cut left hand.

The blaze started in the ceiling of the Blue Plate Lunch, on the first floor, it is believed, from defective wiring, and worked up into the Astoria Italian Restaurant on the second floor. The firemen, under Deputy Chief Caulfield, worked for an hour to extinguish the flames.

JUDGE ORDERS EX-DRY AGENT ARRESTED

Lowell Court Calls for John J. Watkins in Trial of Lawrence Case

Lowell, June 28.—John L. Watkins of Somerville, former Federal enforcement agent under Walter H. Sullivan of this city, must face United States Commissioner Richard B. Walsh in this city, in connection with the case of John F. McCarthy of Lawrence, charged with an illegal sale of liquor.

Today a capias is out for the arrest of Watkins, who was discharged from the Federal service a few weeks ago. It was issued by the office of Assistant District Attorney William White, Jr.

Watkins, the complaining officer in the case against McCarthy, though summoned to appear before Commissioner Walsh yesterday, failed to put in an appearance, and as a consequence the capias issued.

McCarthy's case has been called on several occasions, but postponed each time because of the failure of Watkins to appear.

ORDER "BEER CZARS" TO LAWRENCE COURT

Lawrence, June 28.—A block in Lawrence's alleged beer traffic is expected as a result of a story told in district court today by Peter Golden, proprietor of a saloon at No. 311 Park street.

Golden, whose saloon was raided, declared that he bought alcohol and beer from Sebastiano D'Amico and Joseph Campopiano, declared to be "Beer Czars" of Lawrence.

Judge Mahoney immediately halted the hearing with an order that D'Amico and Campopiano be brought into court next week, that they too might hear Golden's story.

SYLVIA P. FOLSOM

A wedding of interest to bench and bar will take place at the First Unitarian Church, Bridgewater, Monday evening, when Miss Sylvia Purrington-Folsom, head of the Bridgewater High School English department, becomes the bride of Robert T. Bushnell, Harvard law graduate and first assistant district attorney of Middlesex County. Miss Folsom is the daughter of Mrs. George W. Folsom. She was graduated from the Emerson School of Oratory in 1920. District Attorney Arthur H. Reading, Bushnell's chief, will be best man, while two associate assistants, Charles E. Lawrence of Belmont and Warren L. Bishop of Wayland, will act as ushers.

BROCKTON MAN DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Concord, N. H., June 28.—One man was killed, a youth fatally injured, and several other persons hurt when two automobiles crashed head-on today in a fog on the Daniel Webster highway at the Concord-Pembroke line.

Mass., died at the Margaret Pillsbury hospital, where George W. Erickson, seventeen years old, of Raynham, Mass., was expected to live only a short time.

Harold Erickson, nine-year-old brother of George, was rendered unconscious, and their father, Eric E. Erickson, forty-two, was severely cut and bruised.

George E. Wooster, son of Sheriff George A. Wooster of Concord, sustained a broken nose and cuts. His wife suffered from a broken arm and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Harriet Hammond, was cut and shaken up. All were taken to the Margaret Pillsbury hospital.

The collision occurred at the foot of a steep hill near the Boucook River, one of the most dangerous spots on the Daniel Webster highway.

The Massachusetts machine, driven by Eric Erickson and containing his sons and Johnson, was proceeding north toward this city, bound on a fishing trip.

George Wooster, driving the other car, with his wife and mother-in-law, was headed south for Bristol, Ct.

LOEB'S MOTHER AT JAIL FOR FIRST TIME

Chicago, June 28.—Mrs. Albert B. Loeb, mother of Richard Loeb, youth who is awaiting trial with Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., on charges of having kidnaped and slain Robert Franks, today visited the Cook county jail and with eyes wet with tears clasped her prodigal son to her breast for a few minutes.

It was the first meeting between mother and son since the sensational arrest and confession of the boys.

TODAY

though Saturday would have been an appropriate day for such a prayer. The invitation, of course, will come later in the convention, as it does at every convention.

Then came Mr. Cummings with the request for more time to fight over the Ku Klux Klan, and telling a story, new in Democratic conventions, so far as this reporter can remember, about delegates on their knees praying for such a wording to a platform plank as might be read in the convention without starting a bloody row.

THE way of a serpent upon a rock, of a ship in the sea, of an eagle in the air, and of a man with a maid, puzzled the old religious philosopher. But his puzzles were easy.

The way of a lady delegate from Missouri with a dressmaker would really puzzle him. How do those Missouri ladies pack into one trunk all the dresses that they wear?

We again select one lady from the delegation. She tells you all about the others. Just as one drop of water from the Pacific Ocean will tell you all about that great ocean.

The lady is Mrs. Parsons, who stuffed with bails of paper the big brass horns of Al Smith's parading bands.

Mrs. Parsons, of the Missouri delegation, she comes from King City, Missouri, not from Unionville, of course were everything brand new and hitherto unseen this morning. It was evidently her desire to be noticed as little as possible. The dress was plain black, all the way down, one of those dresses made all in one piece, with a sort of belt made of ribbon, very pretty. A new straw hat.

She wore another straw hat, with a big orange colored velvet ribbon across the crown, and around the rim a nice row of flowers, forget-me-nots, corn flowers, etc.

Her shoes were black satin, very small ones, stockings also black. A coral and glass necklace replaced the pearls of the day before. But do not imagine that there is anything frivolous about this lady representative of a great State. There is not a more earnest political fighter on the floor of the convention than herself. And when she takes her pince-nez from her right shoulder, where it is ordinarily fastened with a little snap, and looks at you, you begin to ask yourself "what have I done lately?"

$400,000 LOAN MADE TO R. I. BY BANKS

State Employes to Get Overdue Pay; Democrats Warn of Repayment Risk

Providence, R. I., June 28.—With Governor Flynn and Lt. Gov. Toupin in New York attending the Democratic National Convention, 23 banks and trust companies of Rhode Island have voted a loan of $400,000 to pay State workers their salaries long overdue.

At the same time, the state of Massachusetts has removed its guard of state troopers from about the hotel at Rutland Mass., where the Republican members of the senate have been evading warrants for their arrest for the past week.

The Lieutenant Governor, through whose activity the filibuster has been maintained in the Rhode Island senate since the first of the year, left for New York immediately after the senate, in a half minute session, adjourned to meet next Tuesday at 2 P. M.

The lieutenant governor was accompanied to New York by Democratic Senators Quinn, Coggshall and Powers who will act as a body guard to see that no harm befalls the senate's presiding officer.

WARNED OF RISK.

The Rhode Island banks and trust companys voting the $400,000 to pay state employes have made the loan at their own risk. Democratic leaders have warned the banking institutions that in event the Senate deadlock continues until the end of the year and a Democratic majority is elected in the Senate, Governor Flynn will refuse to sign legislation repaying the loans.

The $400,000 will be disbursed under the direction of Philip B. Simonds, vice-president of the Providence Society for Organizing Charity. The loan was made through G. B. Hibbert, president of the Rhode Island Bankers' association and is the first loan of its kind ever negotiated in New England. The money will be used to pay the salaries of those state workers under the management of the Public Welfare Commission.

TROOPERS LEAVE.

In the meantime, the Republican senators who fled the state to embarrass the Democratic minority in the senate, will have to act as their own guards in their hotel at Rutland.

During their tour of duty the two Massachusetts troopers inspected all suspicious automobiles approaching the hotel. They zealously held up all strangers approaching the hostelry and in other ways saw that the privacy of the fugitives was not violated.

Wounded Vet Seeks Employment As Accountant

Here is a wounded veteran described as one of the best accountants rehabilitated in this district, and thoroughly competent. He is 30 years old, lives in Rhode Island and will go anywhere in New England for employment. He has lost his right foot, but has a genial personality and does not brood over his disability. Is also a typist.

If you can use this man, communicate with the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Special Committee on Employment of Rehabilitated Veterans.

GERMAN AMNESTY IS EXTENDED BY FRENCH

Duesseldorf, June 28. Cognac, France, June 28.—Pilot Lieutenant Batellier was killed today while competing in the Michel Cup race. His aeroplane crashed in a fog.

JAIL SENTENCE GIVEN 'DIVING AUTOIST'

Driver Who Leaped From His Speeding Car Gets Suspended Term and $75 Fine

Walter Boss, twenty-six, of No. 130 Willow street, Waltham, who did a nose dive from a coupe last week to escape capture by the police, was found guilty in East Cambridge district court today and sentenced on three charges.

He was given a suspended sentence of one month in the House of Correction for driving in a manner to endanger the lives and safety of others, a fine of $50 for refusing to stop when a traffic officer signalled and a fine of $25 for operating without a license.

It is the second time Boss has been convicted on a traffic charge. In February he was given a three months suspended sentence for refusing to stop when signalled and for fleeing.

Miss Minnie Reddy of No. 24 Orchard street, Arlington, narrowly escaped injury in his recent escapade, for Boss left her in the running car when he dived. The machine crashed into a hydrant.

All charge purchases during the remainder of the month will be entered on the July bill rendered August 1

"GIRL THAT MEN FORGET" SOUNDS WARNING TO OTHERS

BUTTERFLY BLAMES PARENTS

Think Twice Before Heeding the Lure of Bright Lights, Says Zona Huntoon

Groveton, N. H., June 28.—"I'm the kind of a girl that men forget——"

But there was no song on the lips of pretty Zona Huntoon, accused of murdering her chum, Mrs. Catherine Wallace, divorcee, on a river bank.

Instead, she moved her hands in a helpless, beaten gesture, while giving warning to other girls, happy and carefree, to avoid the circumstances that have thrown her in a jail cell, deserted and alone.

"I'm the kind they enjoy for a while," she paraphrased further. "But when the party is over, when the bubble and the froth and the laughter have gone and nothing but a big head remains—they cast me off.

LAUGHS BITTERLY.

"I am only nineteen years old now. I am charged with murder but I am not guilty. Nevertheless, my reputation—what little I had left—has been ruined."

She laughed, bitterly, without mirth, a laugh that carried a shiver with it.

"To the girls and boys in the small towns and in the cities, who have never been away from home, let me say this word of warning: Think twice before succumbing to the lure of the bright lights.

"Girls, keep away from those men whose lives are spent in road houses and at gay parties. Never venture to drink liquor or smoke cigarettes. Once you start in that direction, you are done."

A vision of the courtroom scene a few hours previous, when she and four men on the fateful auto ride were arraigned on a first degree murder charge, flashed before her.

Following the arraignment of Zona and the men, Oscar Tanguay, Edgar Boutin, Roland Brideau and Osaro Cowette, the case was continued to July 8 and they were held without bail.

"LOOK WHAT IT GOT ME."

Ruby P. Johnson

In the court-room was Miss Ruby P. Johnson, friend of Brideau and declared to be a "star witness" in the murder case. She has told the authorities details of the auto party learned from Brideau. The flashing scene made pretty Zona shudder and she turned it out of her mind as she resumed her story.

"I have seen life at its very lowest," she said. "I have been intimately acquainted with sons of some of Boston's and Brookline's most prominent families. I have associated with students from Harvard, Yale and many other large colleges. And look what it has got me.

"To a large extent my father and mother have been to blame for my downfall. It is they who should have guided me properly through life in its earliest stages.

"My father and mother were never properly mated. When I was only two years old, they were divorced. After that until I was sixteen years old, I spent six months of each year with each of my parents.

"By the time I had reached the age of sixteen I had become thoroughly tired of this sort of life. I decided to change. I was pretty and I knew it. The fellows in my home town of Iresville, Vt., fought for my attentions.

SOUGHT BRIGHT LIGHTS.

"Soon my opportunity came. I inherited $13,000 from an uncle. It was then that I ran away—to Berlin, N. H. After a while, I decided Berlin was not big enough. The bright lights of Boston lured me on to Boston.

"I had been living in Boston only two weeks, when two young men and a girl called at my apartment and induced me to go to an Inn at Wayland. It was there that I first learned to drink and smoke. After that the parties were regular. Before I knew it I had formed the cigarette and liquor habit and try as I might I could break neither.

"I am paying today for the good times I have had. I am not worrying—not blue. I am simply satisfied that I am paying the price for the life I led. I will go to jail with a smile.

PLANS TO REFORM.

"Just before Catherine Wallace and I started on that automobile ride from which she never returned, I said to her:

"'This is the last one, kid. After this we will go back to work and settle down.'

"I little thought that it would end in this manner. I had intended to go back to Boston and study law. I wanted to prove that I had the backbone, to change my ways. And if I ever get out of this scrape, I will show the world that I am not as bad as they think."

'BUBBLE HAS BURST' IN LIFE OF GIRL HELD IN MURDER CASE

ZONA HUNTOON SMILES, REFLECTS

Former Back Bay bright lights girl, accused of murder of chum, Mrs. Catherine Wallace, in Groveton, N. H., is shown above in three poses, two with contagious smiles that once attracted Harvard and Yale students and other gay party companions, and one in which she appeared reflecting on her present serious status. Lower group picture shows County Prosecutor Ryan, stenographer and Groveton policeman at boat after draining pond in which Mrs. Wallace's body was found. "Think twice," says Zona in warning to girls, "before succumbing to the lure of the bright lights of the metropolis."

LOST GIRL, HEIRESS, IS FOUND

Blossom Cale, Daughter of Millionaire Thread Man, Located After Thirty Hours

Newark, N. J., June 28.—Blossom Cale, eighteen-year-old daughter of Arthur Cale, millionaire owner of the Newark Thread Company, was found in in a dazed condition in Elizabeth, N. J., thirty hours after she had mysteriously disappeared.

"I——I——where am I?"

These were her first words when she was found. A moment later she said, as her eyes sought for familiar objects:

"Elizabeth——I just got here——I can't know how."

Then she relapsed into a semi-coma, in which condition she remained long after she had been rushed to her home, No. 64 Lincoln avenue, Newark.

"My daughter——I don't know how to explain her disappearance. She was hurt at Coney island but she seemed all right afterward. I never believed much in loss of memory, but this seems to be a positive case. Thank God she's safe."

That was the first thing Mr. Cale said when he learned his daughter had been found.

At the home, the daughter recognized the mother in a moment of returning consciousness and murmured:

"I don't know—don't where I've been—I—"

Then she relapsed.

While Miss Cale's disappearance was a mystery of the greatest magnitude, the experiences which the girl underwent during the hours of her absence present an enigma which she has never recall, and which may never be known to her family.

On the morning she disappeared she left her home saying to her mother:

"Well, I'm going to father's office now. Good bye. I'll see you later."

LADDER IS USED BY CROOKS

Climb Into Charlestown Building and Batter Safe Open With Sledge Hammer

With a ladder and a sledge hammer, safe breakers scaled the building housing the William N. Willis Co., tent and awning makers, at No. 634A Main street, Charlestown, today, and battered the safe open, stealing $200.

The crackemen, with a ladder, climbed to the roof of the building, descended through a skylight into a locked washroom, broke a window of this room and gained entrance into the sales floor.

William N. Willis

Then they made their way to the office, where, with a sledge hammer, they broke the combination off the safe and swung it open. The $200 in cash was taken but a number of checks and a revolver were not molested.

Finger print experts from police headquarters were placed on the case today.

Inspector Joseph Rollins, finger print expert from headquarters, examined the safe.

Three men, loitering in an automobile near the Willis establishment last night, are under suspicion by Special Officer Bonner and Patrolman McGee of the Charlestown station, who were assigned to investigate the safe breaks.

Safe breakers also entered the office of Harrington and Company, No. 60 First street, East Cambridge, broke into two safes, stole $50 in cash and generally ransacked the place.

They entered through a rear window. The combination dials of the safe were knocked off.

PAIR ABOUT TO MARRY PARTED

Raymond Searway, aged 22, of No. 22 North North High street, Melrose, went around to the jewelers and bought a wedding ring. Then he got a marriage license. Next he engaged the minister.

But the wedding isn't coming off for a year.

Raymond was to wed Miss Lillian Stevens, aged 18 of No. 28 Cedar Park, Melrose. The wedding was to mark the climax of a dashing, smashing romantic six-month engagement.

It was the parents of the young folks and the members of their immediate family that took the clappers out of the wedding bells. They decided that Lillian was too young to become a matron and that Raymond had better get a job before contemplating matrimony.

Lillian Stevens

Raymond Searway

The families deny the story that was general in Melrose that a sister of the bride-to-be journeyed down from Lowell and confiscated the wedding ring and the marriage license.

The young folks insist that the wedding is coming off just one year hence when they will be in better shape to take up married life. Raymond expects to have a good job by that time and the couple will then go on a long honeymoon.

At the First Baptist church, Melrose, the minister was waiting to perform the ceremony. Young Raymond called him on the telephone and told him the young lady of his choice was "ill" so there would be no wedding.

The council of the members of the two families was not held until a few minutes before the bridal party was to have left for the church.

"We love each other and we'll be married in June, next year," the pair told their friends in announcing there would be no wedding.

BIG WELCOME AWAITS DELEGATES' RETURN

A big reception to the delegates to the Democratic national convention in New York, upon their return to Boston, is planned by City Councillor George F. Gilbody. Two brass bands have been hired, banners are being made and a route for a street parade is under consideration. The delegates will be met at the South Station and the New York boat pier and escorted to City Hall, where a public celebration will take place. Gilbody says that if Governor Smith is nominated the demonstration will be the greatest of its kind ever held in Boston.

8 PERSONS ARE KILLED IN PEORIA TORNADO

Peoria, Ill., June 28.—Eight persons were killed and scores injured in a tornado in Peoria and surrounding territory today. The bodies of a woman and her baby were found in a field far from their home at Cloverdale. At Morton two were killed and many injured. No trace of a west-bound big four-passenger train could be found. The train was due here at 6:45 a. m. Three or four persons are reported to have been drowned when houseboats on the river front capsized.

Des Moines, Ia., June 28.—A tornado here today caused thousands of dollars in property damage. Four persons are known to have been injured.

OLD PETERS' SCHOOL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Southboro, June 28.—The old Peters' High School, for several years past occupied by the Deerfoot Farm Dairy Company, was destroyed today by fire of undetermined origin. The blaze, which broke out for the second time after having been extinguished, resulted in loss estimated at $15,000. The firemen of Southboro and Marlboro, who were called, were handicapped by inadequate water facilities.

The building, originally a church, was purchased 50 years ago by Henry H. Peters. He had it remodelled and presented it to Southboro as a high school building. It was named for him and served as a high school for 40 years.

ELKS IN DRIVE TO COMPLETE THEIR FUND

The Ways and Means Committee of the Boston Lodge of Elks, through its chairman, Charles E. Osgood, announces it is several thousand dollars short of the $100,000 necessary to carry out the plans for the coming National Convention of the Order. According to the announcement, a great deal of money has been contributed, but more must be raised, to make the convention the greatest event in New England. Donations can be sent care of this newspaper, or direct to C. E. Osgood, Chairman Ways and Means Committee.

Charles E. Osgood.

Prizes totalling $3650 will be awarded in competitions during the convention, which begins here July 6. These will be for the best decorated buildings, best dressed windows, drill team prizes and band contests. In the parade, prizes will be given to lodges having the greatest aggregate mileage, based on the number registering and appearing in line.

There will also be a prize for the greatest aggregate mileage based on the number registering and appearing in line of lodges west of the Mississippi; also for the best appearance in line, open to all lodges outside of Boston.

FERNALD'S PLURALITY IN MAINE WAS 8,652

Augusta, Me., June 28.—United States Senator Bert M. Fernald was re-nominated at the Republican primary on June 16 with a plurality of 8652. The governor and council, in announcing the result of the official tabulation today, gave the totals as 38,590 for Senator Fernald, 29,938 for former Congressman Frank E. Guernsey and 16,452 for Louis A. Jack.

Congressman Wallace H. White, Jr., Republican, was renominated with a plurality of 2,250 over Cyrus N. Blanchard.

POLICEMAN BEATEN STOPPING A FIGHT

Patrolman Thomas Daley of No. 1 Fairfield place, attached to the Boston liquor squad, was beaten into unconsciousness when he endeavored to break up a fight on the Morton street playgrounds in the North End.

Patrolman Daley

Daley, in plain clothes, was passing the playground when two men started a fist fight. The officer stepped into the melee and endeavored to place the aggressor under arrest.

Immediately, both fighters turned on the officer and gave him a severe beating.

DIET ASKS JAPAN TO FIGHT EXCLUSION ACT

Tokio, June 28 (A.P.)—Before the opening of the Diet today, representatives of all parties of the lower house drew up a resolution requesting that the government take prompt steps to remedy the situation created by the passage of the exclusion act by the American Congress.

The resolution declares "this house records its strong opposition to the American immigration act, which in its opinion, violates the principle of justice and equality and impairs the century-long friendship of Japan and America.

"It, therefore, expects the government to take prompt and necessary steps to remedy the situation."

NEWPORT NOT VICE HAVEN, SAYS OFFICIAL

Newport, R. I., June 28.—Accusations in an open letter by Miss Esther Norton Smith that this city has "become a by-word for protected vice of every kind," were denied by Alderman J. Joseph Martin, acting mayor.

The denial was made at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen, of which Mr. Martin is president. On a motion made by Alderman Joseph J. Kirby, Miss Smith was invited to appear before the Board next Tuesday evening and make good her charges.

QUIMBY CO. ENDS MEETING IN OUTING

Officers and employes of the W. S. Quimby wound up their sales convention today with their annual outing at McPeake's Shore Garden, Nantasket. Dancing on the boat and sports at Nantasket featured the party.

President W. S. Quimby and A. E. Greenleaf of the Greenleaf Co., advertising counsellors for the company, were the chief speakers at the convention, which was under the direction of J. A. Taylor, sales manager.

SEIZED AUTOS SOLD AT $4 BY DRY FORCES

Bootleggers' automobiles, seized by prohibition authorities, were knocked down for the price of half a pint of bootleg whiskey at the South Boston Army Base today.

The machines were auctioned off by Deputy U. S. Marshal James Fraser, the buyers being J. J. Cooper of No. 3 Ware street, Boston, and J. Shannahan, No. 81 Central avenue, Revere.

James Fraser.

To be sure, the cars were stripped of their tires, rims and other equipment, and were in somewhat battered condition, but even at that the prices were remarkable.

A 1918 touring car brought $4, while another of the vintage of 1916 was knocked down for a dollar less. A truck sold for $16, another touring car, 1917 model, for $36, and a 1923 truck for $82.

993 COAL MINERS LOSE LIVES IN 4 MONTHS

Princeton, Ind., June 28.—No other coal producing country has as high a death and injury rate among miners as the United States, according to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, who spoke here today at the annual first aid meeting for Indiana held under the auspices of the Joseph A. Holmes Association. Mr. Lewis urged greater interest by the government in protecting miners against accidents.

"A recent report of the United States Bureau of Mines reveals that a total of 993 lives were lost in the coal industry of the country for the first four months of 1924," said Mr. Lewis. "In the month of April alone there was a total of 234 men killed. This record is appalling."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The Democratic party pledges all its energies to the outlawing of the whole war system. We refuse to believe that the wholesale slaughter of human beings on the battlefield is any more necessary to man's highest development than is killing by individuals.

The only hope for world peace and for an economic recovery lies in the organized efforts of sovereign nations co-operating to remove the causes of war and to substitute law and order for violence.

Under Democratic leadership a practical plan was devised under which fifty-four nations are now operating and which has for its fundamental purpose the free co-operation of all nations in the work of peace.

The government of the United States for the last four years has had no foreign policy, and consequently it has delayed the restoration of the political and economic agencies of the world, it has impaired our self-respect at home and injured our prestige abroad. It has curtailed our foreign markets and ruined our agricultural prices.

It is of supreme importance to civilization and to mankind that America be placed and kept on the right side of the greatest moral question of all time, and therefore the Democratic party renews its declaration of confidence in the ideal of world peace, the League of Nations and the World Court of Justice as together constituting the supreme effort of the statesmanship and religious conviction of our time to organize the world for peace. Further, the Democratic party announces that it will be the purpose of the next administration to do all in its power to secure for our country that moral leadership in the family of nations which is the providence of God has been so clearly marked out for it. There is no substitute for the League of Nations as an agency working for peace through force we believe that in the interest of permanent peace, and in the lifting of the great burdens of war from the backs of the people, and to establish a permanent foundation on these supreme questions, not subject to change with changing party administrations, it is desirable, it is wise and necessary to lift this question out of party politics and to that end to take the sense of the American people at a referendum election, advisory to the government, to be held officially under act of Congress, free from all other questions and candidates, after ample time for full consideration and discussion throughout the country, upon the question, in substance as followa:

Shall the United States become a member of the League of Nations upon such reservations or amendments to the covenant of the league as the President and the Senate of the United States may agree upon?

Immediately upon an affirmative vote we will carry out such mandate.

SCORE CORRUPTION

We urge the American people to compare the record of eight unsatisfactory years under the Republican administration with that of the Republican administration. In the former there was no corruption. Party pledges were faithfully fulfilled, and a Democratic congress enacted an extraordinary number of constructive and remedial laws.

Transition from this period of exalted Democratic leadership to the sordid record of the last three and a half years makes the nation ashamed. It marks the contrast between a high conception of public service and the evil purpose to distribute spoils.

Never before in our history has the executive branch been so steeped in corruption and never has an administration so utterly failed. The nation has been plundered by the most dishonest administration that could have characterized the conduct of public affairs.

We arraign the Republican party for attempting to limit inquiry into official delinquencies and to impede, if not to frustrate, the investigations to which in the beginning the Republican party and leaders assented but which later they regarded with dismay.

These investigations and former Secretary of Interior Three Rivers is disgrace and dishonor.

OIL FRAUDS

These investigations revealed the incapacity and indifference to public obligation of the Secretary of the Navy, compelling him, to force a public opinion, to quit the Cabinet. These investigations confirmed the general impression as to the unfitness of the Attorney-General as ex-part of the necessities of life. We pening an official situation and per-hold that the fairest tax will be which sonal contacts which shocked the conscience of the nation and compelled his dismissal from the Cabinet.

These investigations disclosed the appalling condition of the Veterans' Bureau with its fraud upon the government and its cruel neglect of the sick and disabled soldiers of the World War. These investigations revealed the criminal and fraudulent nature of the oil leases, which angered the Congress, despite the indifference of the Executive, to direct recovery of the public domain and the prosecution of the criminal.

CHAOS UNDER G. O. P.

Such are the exigencies of partisan politics that Republican leaders are toppling the strange doctrine that public censure should be directed against those who have exposed crime rather than against criminals who have committed the offenses. If only those cabinet officers out of office should be discarded, the country is asked to marvel at how many are free from taint.

HONEST RULE

We pledge the Democratic party to drive from public places all who make barter of our national honor, and to restore to the public service of its every department that ability and integrity of those officials.

To put none but the honest in office; to require the strictest economy in the expenditure of public money; to overhaul and reorganize the entire system of federal taxation; to collect taxes, and to spend the money we collect honestly and economically for the purposes for which it is collected; to enforce the full measure of every right guaranteed by the Constitution; to secure the full enjoyment of the freedom of speech, of the press and of religious belief; to administer the law fairly and impartially; to protect the foreign-born citizen in the rights granted him by our treaties of naturalization; to deal justly with the Indian wards of the nation; to wage relentless war against lynching, the most terrible form of anarchy; to insist upon the maintenance of the rights of citizens of African descent; to condemn and destroy government by the few and the blackmailer as by this Republican administration was both encouraged and practiced.

TARIFF AND TAXES

The Fordney-McCumber tariff act is the most unjust, unscientific and dishonest tariff tax measure ever enacted by any legislative body in any legislation, which, at frauds on the people for the benefit of a few, is heavily increasing the cost of living, penalizes agriculture, corrupts government, fosters paternalism and in the long run does not benefit the very interests for which it was enacted.

We denounce the Republican tariff law which has written in great part in aid of monopolies and thus prevent that reasonable exchange of commodities which would enable favorable conditions for the sale of products agricultural and manufactured products with resultant benefit to the workers and producers of America.

The greatest controlling factor in the increase and continuance of prices and the high cost of living has been the Fordney-McCumber tariff, which has deprived the people of the benefits of competition, reduced the purchasing power of the dollar, increased the cost of living, and although the farmers' necessities are on the free list, no form of tariff favors already granted to special interests, the accumulation of which has piled up the cost of living to a point further and further removed from the purchasing power of the people.

Unfortunately this plan to tax all manufactures failed and some of the worst features indicted and condemned by Republicans, a more equitable law was adopted, which reduced taxes about three hundred and fifty million dollars.

OPPOSE SALES TAX

The issue between the President and the Democratic party is clear-cut. The President would put the bulk of the taxes on the consumption of capital. It is an example of a regressive burden of taxation and of the distribution of wealth as exhibited in the taxation of income. The President will stumble on the so-called Mellon plan, which his party has once refused to endorse by action in its platform.

The income tax was intended as a tax upon wealth. It was not intended to take from the poor any of the necessities of life. We

Outstanding Pledges in Democratic Platform

Among the important pledges made by the Democratic party in its platform at the convention today are the following:

League of Nations—No substitute for it as an agency working for world peace. United States to decide at a special referendum election whether it "shall become a member of the league upon such reservations or amendments to the covenant of the league as the President and the Senate may agree upon.

Tariff—Enactment of a new law designed to "promote effective competition, protect against monopoly, and at the same time produce a fair revenue to support the Government."

Taxation—Further reductions and opposition to nuisance taxes and sales taxes, and graduated income tax in proportion to benefits enjoyed and ability to pay is favored.

Railroads—Revision of the Esch-Cummins act to reduce the cost of transportation, improve service and better labor conditions.

Muscle Shoals—Fulfillment of policy in National Defense act for production of nitrates for fertilizer in peace and munitions in war, demanding prompt Congressional action for maximum production.

Coal and other necessaries—Federal regulation of anthracite coal industry and all other corporations controlling necessaries of life "where public welfare has been subordinated to private interests."

Civil Service—Extension of its provisions to internal revenue officers and other government employes, with preference to appointments to ex-service men.

Postal Employes—Adequate salaries, without mention of increases or President Coolidge's veto of recent salary increase bill.

War Veterans—Generosity, honesty and sympathetic care in hospitalization, rehabilitation and compensation of veterans of all wars and their dependents. Humanizing of the Veterans' Bureau.

Campaign Contributions—"Reasonable publicity at public expense" in primary and election contests, with limitations by law of individual contributions to campaign funds of Presidential, Senatorial and Congressional candidates, and of total expenditures; also full publicity of receipts and disbursements. Revision of Corrupt Practices act "to prevent Newberryism."

Philippines—Immediate independence.

Armenia—Protection of American rights in Turkey and fulfillment of President Wilson's arbitral reward respecting Armenia.

War and National Defense—Drafting resources as well as men in time of war; strict and sweeping reduction of land and sea armaments by world agreement, with adequate army and navy meanwhile; popular referendum on declaration of war, if the other nations agree to the same policy, the referendum not to apply in case of actual or threatened attack.

Labor and Child Welfare—Laws favorable to collective bargaining and regulating hours and working conditions; to make convict labor products subject to laws of State in which sold; construction and repair of public works in periods of acute unemployment; co-operation with States for child welfare and safeguards against debilitating work for women.

to raise revenue for the Federal government is the income tax.

We favor a graduated tax upon incomes, so adjusted as to lay the heaviest government upon the taxpayers in proportion to the benefits they enjoy and their ability to pay. We oppose the so-called nuisance taxes and all other forms of taxation that unfairly shift to the consumer the burdens of taxation.

We denounce the Mellon tax plan as a device to relieve multimillionaires at the expense of other taxpayers, and we accept the issue of taxation tendered to President Coolidge.

AGRICULTURE

During the four years of Republican government the economic conditions of the American farmer has changed from comfort to bankruptcy, and all his attendant miseries. The chief causes for this are:

(a) The Republican party policy of isolation in international affairs has prevented Europe from getting back to its normal balance, and by leaving unsettled the economic problems abroad, has driven the European city population from industrial activities to the soil in large numbers in order to earn the mere necessities of life. This has deprived the American farmer of his normal export trade.

(b) The Republican policy of a prohibitive tariff, exemplified in the Fordney-McCumber law, which has forced the American farmer, with his export market debilitated, to buy manufactured goods at maintained high domestic levels, thereby making him the victim of the profiteer.

(c) The Republican policy of high transportation rates, both rail and water, which has made it impossible for the farmer to ship his produce to market at even a living profit.

OFFER SOLUTIONS

To offset these policies and their disastrous results, and to restore the farmer again to economic equality with other industrials, we pledge ourselves:

(a) To adopt an international policy of such co-operation, by direct official instead of indirect and evasive unofficial means, as will re-establish the farmer's export market by restoring the industrial balance in Europe and the normal flow of international trade with the settlement of Europe's economic problem.

(b) To attack the cause as well as the effect of the present agricultural depression, and to remove the cause by action in a comprehensive economic manner.

(c) To readjust and lower rail and water rates, which will make our markets, both for the import and other, national and international instead of regional and local.

(d) To bring about the early completion of the internal water way systems for transportation and to develop our water powers for cheaper fertilizer and use on our farms.

(e) To stimulate by every proper governmental activity the progress of the co-operative marketing movement and the establishment of an export marketing corporation or combination in order that the exportable surplus may not establish the price of the whole crop.

(f) To secure for the farmer credits suitable for his needs.

(g) By the establishment of these policies and others naturally supplementary thereto, to reduce the margin between what the producer receives for his products and the consumer has to pay for his supplies, to the end that we secure an equality for agriculture.

The sponsors for the Esch-Cummins transportation act of 1920, at the time of its presentation to Congress, stated that it had for its purpose the reduction of the cost of transportation, the improvement of service, the betterment of labor conditions, the promotion of peaceful cooperation between employer and employe, and at the same time, fair as a source of a fair and just return to the railroads upon their investment.

We are in accord with these announced purposes, but contend that the act has failed to accomplish them. It has failed to reduce the cost of transportation. The improvement of service has not been realized. The labor provisions of the act have proven unsatisfactory in settling differences between employer and employes.

PROVEN FUTILE

The so-called recapture clause has worked to the advantage of the strong and has been of no benefit to the weak. The pronouncement in the act for the development of both rail and water transportation has proven futile.

Water transportation upon our inland waterways has not been encouraged and limitation of our coastwise trade is threatened by the administration of the act. It has unnecessarily interfered with the power of the States to regulate purely intra-state transportation. It must, therefore, be said in exercising the high purposes which the public welfare may be accomplished.

Railroad freight rates should be adjusted so as to give bulky, low priced raw commodities, such as agricultural products, coal and ores, the lowest rates, placing the highest rates upon more valuable and less bulky manufactured products.

MUSCLE SHOALS

We reaffirm and pledge the fulfillment of the policy with reference to Muscle Shoals, as declared and passed by the Democratic majority of the sixty fourth congress in the national defense act of 1916, for the production of nitrates or other products needed for munitions of war and useful in the manufacture of fertilizers."

We hold that the production of cheaper and higher grade fertilizers is essential to agricultural prosperity. We demand prompt action by congress for the operation of the Muscle Shoals plants to maximum capacity in the production, distribution and sale of commercial fertilizers to the farmers of the country, and we oppose any legislation that limits the production of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals by limiting the amount of power to be used in their manufacture.

CONSERVATION

We pledge recovery of the Navy's oil reserves and all other parts of the public domain, which have been fraudulently or illegally leased or otherwise wrongfully transferred to the control of private interests; vigorous prosecution of all public officials, private citizens and corporations, that participated in these transactions; revision of the water power act, the general leasing act, and all other legislation relating to the public domain, that may be essential to its conservation and honest and efficient use on behalf of the people of the country.

We favor and will promote deep waterways from the Great Lakes to the Gulf and to the Atlantic Ocean.

We declare that a private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable and pledge the Democratic party to a vigorous enforcement of existing laws against monopoly and illegal combinations and to the enactment of such further measures as may be necessary.

MERCHANT MARINE

The Democratic party condemns the vacillating policy of the Republican administration in its failure to develop an American flag shipping policy. There has been a marked decrease in the volume of American commerce carried in American vessels as compared to the record under a Democratic administration.

We declare that the government should own and operate such merchant ships as will insure the accomplishment of these purposes, and to continue such operation so long as it may be necessary without obstructing the development and growth of a privately owned American flag shipping.

POSTAL EMPLOYES

We declare in favor of adequate salaries to provide decent living conditions for postal employes.

POPULAR ELECTIONS

We pledge the Democratic party to a policy which will prevent members of either House who fail of re-election from participating in the subsequent sessions of Congress. This can be accomplished by fixing ten days for convening the Congress immediately after the biennial national election; and to this end we favor granting the right to the people of the several States to vote on proposed Constitutional amendments on this subject.

AVIATION

We favor a sustained development of aviation both by the government and commercially.

CHILD WELFARE

Labor is not a commodity; it is human. We favor collective bargaining and laws regulating hours of labor, and working conditions under which labor is performed. We favor the enactment of legislation providing that the product of convict labor shipped by the states to another will be subject to the laws of the latter state exactly as though they had been produced therein.

We pledge the party to co-operate with the state governments for the welfare, education and protection of child life and all necessary safeguards against exhaustive debilitating employment conditions for women.

VETERANS OF WARS

We favor generous appropriations, honest management and sympathetic care and assistance in the hospitalization, rehabilitation and compensation of the veterans of all wars and their dependents. The humanizing of the veterans' bureau is imperatively required.

NARCOTICS

Recognizing in narcotic addiction, especially the spreading of heroin addiction among the youth, a grave peril to America and to the human race, we pledge ourselves vigorously to take against it all legitimate and proper measures for education, for control and for suppression at home and abroad.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Republican administration has failed to enforce the prohibition law. It is guilty of trafficking in liquor permits, and has become the protector of violators of this law.

The Democratic party pledges itself to respect and enforce the Constitution and all laws.

ASIATICS

We pledge ourselves to maintain our established position in favor of the exclusion of Asiatic immigration.

The Filipino people have succeeded in maintaining a stable government and have thus fulfilled the only condition laid down by Congress as a prerequisite to the granting of independence. We declare that it is now our liberty and our duty to keep our promises to these people by granting them immediately the independence which they so honorably covet.

WAR

War is a relic of barbarism, and it is justifiable only as a measure of defense.

In the event of war in which the man power of the nation is drafted, all other resources should likewise be drafted. This will tend to discourage war by depriving it of its profits.

We demand a strict and excessive reduction of armaments by land and sea, so that there shall be no competitive military programs or naval building. Until international agreements to this end have been made, we advocate an army and navy adequate for our national safety.

TWO DIFFERENCES.

"In two instances there has been a difference of opinion. There was a difference as to the phraseology to be employed in the plank regarding the League of Nations."

"On that plank the majority report will carry with it the signatures of a large majority of the committee, a minority report will be submitted, I understand, by Mr. Baker of Ohio.

"But these difficulties are but a part of the story. There was no plank on which a great difference arose. The sub-committee was unable to agree, and last night the full committee went into session to discuss the plank dealing with religious freedom.

"We discussed that plank all night, until we adjourned at six o'clock this morning. I regret to say that as the discussion went on it became more heated. The discussion became somewhat acrimonious.

THOUGHT OF PARTY.

"And when we saw that the committee disagreed in that way, we began to wonder what would happen if the committee were asked to discuss that question.

"In other words, we began to think of the Democratic party. We thought of all that might be involved. And then we grew closer together around the council table, friends, seeking to find a way that the country might have the service of a united Democratic party.

"We concluded we ought to have on that particular subject an opportunity for further conference.

"In all the years I have known political events I never witnessed such a scene as took place in the committee room at six o'clock this morning.

"When we began to feel the spirit of fraternity again in our breasts, one of the members of the committee arose and recited the Lord's Prayer and then Mr. Bryan lifted up his voice in a plea for Divine guidance.

"At the unanimous request of the committee I ask this great convention, in the interest of the party, to adjourn until 3 o'clock this afternoon."

BRYAN-COLBY TO DEBATE KLAN PLANK

Madison Square Garden, New York, June 28.—Democratic party leaders failed today in a renewed effort to reconcile their differences over the Ku Klux Klan issue and voted an open fight on the floor of the National Convention.

A morning session of the Convention was adjourned to provide opportunity for further peace conferences, but after more than two hours' consultation with other party chieftains the advocates of an out-and-out anti-Klan plank announced that the issue must be settled by the delegates themselves.

Bainbridge Colby of New York, a former Secretary of State, was chosen to conduct the floor fight for the plank condemning the Klan by name, and it appeared likely that William Jennings Bryan would lead the opposition. Efforts to get a plank in the platform only a general reaffirmation of the principle of religious liberty.

Just before the convention reassembled for an afternoon session to hear the debate and vote its decision the platform committee held another meeting in a final desperate effort toward the compromise which party leaders had failed to attain.

Charles H. Cole, delegate-at-large from Massachusetts, was chosen to assist former Secretary Colby in the convention.

The plan of attack as decided upon by the anti-Klan leaders was communicated to Governor Smith by George E. Brennan of Illinois and word was brought back that it had the unqualified approval of the New York Governor.

Seemingly hopelessly divided on the issue of whether the Klan was to be named specifically and succumbed to the goods loaded with threats of a party split, the convention managers sent Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, chairman of the platform committee, to the speakers' stand to explain why the platform was being delayed and to plead for more time.

Tired and worn by continuous loss of sleep since last Tuesday, Chairman Cummings gave as dramatic a recital as ever has been heard in a National Convention.

Explaining the deliberations of the committee and its inability to reach an agreement, he told amid a dramatic silence how after an all night session the committeemen had gathered around their table in the breaking dawn and recited in unison the Lord's Prayer, after which William Jennings Bryan raised his voice and spoke a prayer for divine guidance.

Chairman Cummings' dramatic plea came when he stepped to the front of the platform, worn and tired and showing the effects of hours and hours of labor. He said:

GREAT HARMONY.

"I have never seen a sub-committee that worked together with greater harmony," he continued. "Every member has worked faithfully to draft a platform that would be commensurate with the opportunities of the party in this campaign.

"The platform will be ready for submission to this convention within a few hours. I think you will be proud of that platform and I think you will regard it as a winning platform."

Apologizing for the weakness of his voice, Mr. Cummings said he had only six hours' sleep since Tuesday.

"I refer to this," he said, "so that you may know we have wasted no time. We have dealt with all the questions before us except two issues, way that has met the approval of every one of the fifty-four members of the committee.

McADOO MAN SEES PEACE IN KLAN ROW

New York, June 28.—David L. Rockwell, campaign manager for McAdoo, declared after the recess of the forenoon session of the convention that the outlook for agreement on the Klan plank was most promising.

"The judgment of the wiser men in the Democratic party is about to prevail," he added. "By that I mean that the platform will reflect a national party view rather than a local view."

THIRD PARTY CANDIDACY OF LA FOLLETTE SEEMS CERTAIN

EVENTS IN NEW YORK SETTLE IT

Wisconsin Senator Feels the Democrats Haven't Furthered Cause of Progressivism

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

New York, June 28 (Universal).—"Fighting Bob" La Follette is a candidate for President of the United States—as things stand today.

The Democratic National Convention has thus far made a bad impression upon him.

He sees no evidence of progressivism in it. He sees no chance for either a progressive platform or candidate.

La Follette's attitude toward the presidency may be summed up briefly as follows: He will be a candidate if neither the Republican nor the Democratic convention adopts a liberal platform and chooses a progressive nominee.

The Cleveland convention answered the question negatively. Thus far the Democrats have failed to convince him they are not tarred with the same stick of reaction.

Senator La Follette's view of the convention here was stated by one of his closest advisors as follows:

"BOSSED CONVENTION."

"This convention does not appear to represent the spirit of the rank

Sen. La Follette W. S. Stone and file of the people. It seems to be made up of delegates who ride in Pullman cars and lounge in the best hotels and who are far from being as progressive as the people.

"It may change over night and become as progressive as the people desire them to be. But that seems hardly possible.

"The convention seems to be controlled by party bosses who are reactionary at heart and who become progressive for brief intervals only when they are threatened with the loss of their power."

Senator Walsh of Montana, Senator Wheeler of Montana and Senator Dill of Washington are Democrats who portray the type satisfactory to the Wisconsin senator. Asked about Senator Ralston and Senator Robinson the spokesman said:

CONDEMNS RALSTON.

"Senator La Follette will doubtless be a candidate if either is nominated here. Ralston is a good picture of the politics of this convention. He presents an attempt to straddle.

"It was said of Harding among progressives that he was a progressive, among conservatives that he was a conservative. The same could be said of Ralston.

"The country wants a fighting progressive, not a question mark.

"Senator Robinson thinks only in terms of party politics. That is a fundamental weakness."

Unless the unexpected happens, in the choice of a progressive here, Senator La Follette is prepared to accept the nomination of the Third Party convention at Cleveland on July 4. His friends are already considering the selection of a strong candidate to run with him.

W. S. STONE PREFERRED.

Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is today looked upon with the strongest favor by them. Stone makes a fine appearance, is a good speaker, has the confidence of the workingmen and has had the executive and administrative experience of building up a powerful labor organization and its rapidly-developing banking business.

Chairman Huston Thompson of the Federal Trade Commission, who is here working for McAdoo; Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carl Vrooman, also a delegates here, and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana are others being considered.

OSSIPEE, N. H., PUT DEFINITELY ON MAP

New York, June 28.—The convention gave a loud cheer when the nominator of Governor Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire proudly proclaimed the executive's birthplace as Ossipee, N. H. Ossipee suddenly became famous, much in the manner that Peachbottom, Vt., woke up one morning after George Harvey had been orating in London, and found itself on the map.

BRYAN LAUDS FRAMERS OF PLATFORM

By W. J. BRYAN.

New York, June 28.—I am sure my readers will forgive me for writing a brief story today. I have not had a half night's sleep since the convention opened.

This morning I reached the hotel at five minutes before 6, after nine hours in the committee room—and such hours. I have learned to know a number of men tonight as I could not have learned to know them in years. What a wonderful thing the human heart is when you get acquainted with it.

If anyone doubts that the Bible is true when it says, "Out of the heart are the issues of life," let him join a group of men dealing with great problems under a sense of tremendous responsibility, and he will see how majestically the heart commands the brain.

HIS DUTY TO PARTY.

The mind, confused and doubting, stumbles along its uncertain path when all at once the heart pushes the mind aside, ascends the throne and takes control. Behold the change in manner and method and result!

I felt that I ought to come to this convention. It was a feeling rather than a logical conclusion because I had nothing to reason from or reply or reason to. I just felt that an occasion might arise when I could render some little service to my party and thus pay back the unlimited debt I owe it.

So I put aside my work and started out with my secretary in a Ford, he driving. I spent a little over one month traveling from county seat to county seat over that wide extended State, less than 10 per cent, of which is under cultivation. I know Florida now, her seacoast, her inland lakes, and her wonderful springs—more water is said to pour out of the ground through springs in Florida than in any similar area of the world's surface.

I visited fishing towns and orange groves, truck gardens and orchards of grapefruit, crossed the Suwannee River, time and again, following it from its source to its mouth. I saw animals of every kind and heard every variety of songbird.

GIVEN RECORD VOTE.

I visited every county but two small ones and every county seat but three, but I never have been so abundantly rewarded for a similar expenditure of time and money.

The vote that they gave me was over eighty-five thousand, about twice that of the next candidate on the ticket and more than was ever cast for any candidate before in the entire history of Florida.

It was a sweet compliment for the Democrats of that State to one who is a newcomer in the State, but an old friend. The honor they did me more than repaid me, but that was the least of their gifts.

I am getting acquainted with the eleven other delegates, several of whom I had not known. They, too, have been gracious and are added to the list of friends, whom I expect to know and love during the years that remain to me. But the compensation grows.

The more than fifty members of the resolutions committee have become entwined with my life, especially the eleven splendid men, with whom I have been associated on the sub-committee, but these have been brought nearer by the prolonged companionship of last night.

I cannot tell you what I know about the platform. It is a confidential matter among the members, but it distresses me more than it does my readers to withhold the delightful news that I have in store for you.

It is worth waiting for. And now, for three hours deep and then another day of activity, I hope the last one filled with weary hours.

Cole Fights Coakley

New York, June 28.—The principal features of the lineup of the Massachusetts delegation is that General Cole, Joseph H. Ely and Attorney Tolman are leading the battle for Governor Smith, while Daniel H. Coakley, John F. Doherty, Andrew Barrett, Patrick Bowen and William F. Hickey are out to beat him. Cole has pleaded in vain with these delegates for a united delegation for Smith.

RALSTON FOE OF KLAN, SAYS TAGGART

New York, June 28.—Thomas Taggart, of Indiana, manager of the campaign of Senator Ralston of that state for the presidential nomination, issued a statement today in reply to published reports that the Senator is a Ku Klux Klan candidate. These reports, Taggart said, were the work of other aspirants for the nomination.

"If Ralston had had his way, the Anti-Klan plank in the Indiana Democratic platform would have been stronger than it is," Taggart declared.

"The fact that stories are being circulated to the effect that Ralston is to be a Klan candidate shows the extremes to which the friends of the other candidates are going to defeat him."

GOV. SMITH REFUSES TO GIVE UP HOPE

New York, June 28 (I. N. S.).—On the eve of balloting I feel very much encouraged. I believe I will be nominated."

Governor Al Smith made this statement today following conference with Democratic leaders and delegates which lasted a greater part of the night.

WARNED BY COOLIDGE'S MAYOR

Woodhouse of Northampton Demands Democrats Cut Out Narrowness

By JO SWERLING.

Madison Square Garden, New York, June 28.—(Ringside.)—Fifth round of the battle between "Kid" Smith and "Battling" McAdoo, both of them getting groggy and the fans yearning wistfully for the convention K. O. that they hope will come today, but fear will be delayed to next week.

There isn't enough enthusiasm left to repeat the rather senseless demonstrations of the earlier sessions. That is one blessing. The delegates have been asphyxiated with the concentrated gas of scores of orators.

The delegates and galleries got talk, talk, talk until their nerves raw with the punishment, broke frequently, and there was constant shouting of "Cut it short."

Only Massachusetts still has its pep. It's amazing. Al Moore's United States Jazz Band, official band of the Bay State outfit, blares nightly in the Belmont lobby and usually isn't called off until one or two o'clock in the morning.

The delegation marched to the Garden behind the band with a distinguished Bostonian playing the slide trombone in place of the regular musician. He was Mayor Curley, and doggone, he played it well.

The most belated of all the convention delegates got in at last. He is William H. Barry from Nashua, N. H., who had probably hoped to arrive just in time to attend the session where the balloting took place. He was surprised to find them still making nominating speeches.

Professor Edward J. Woodhouse, mayor of Northampton, Mass., home town of President Coolidge, is speaking the most outspoken of all the delegates. In a newspaper interview Mr. Woodhouse said:

"If this convention fails to nominate Al Smith because of religious matters, the Republicans will sweep to sure victory in November."

When the balloting starts John H. Backus will make good his promise to cast his half vote from New Bedford, Mass., for Governor Smith. This vote originally intended as a complimentary vote but Backus now thinks that Roosevelt is a serious contender and so the many others.

Roosevelt's nominating speech for Smith was the one really eloquent oration of the convention, and Backus' half vote may start something that he never had in mind when he pledged that half vote to Smith's manager.

There is a strong feeling that Hiram's crowd Cole would be an ideal running mate for Al Smith if he should happen to win the nomination. It is pointed out that Cole was the first governor to come out for smith in Massachusetts.

Those who are booming Cole for second place on the ticket point out that this would prevent Coolidge from carrying the "home state" vote which is due to local pride, and it is further pointed out that Cole would break the possible soldier vote that Dawes might get.

Of course, if Smith loses out, Cole's chances are as slim as to be negligible.

Dr. Anna B. Parker, Gilmanton, N. H., superintendent of the New Hampshire delegation, is a gifted orator, and would do so for the fact that there was an overabundance of speech making. Would probably have been selected to make a seconding speech in behalf of Governor Brown.

There is no doubt that the best of the seconding speeches was made by Mrs. Carroll Miller of Pennsylvania, in behalf of Smith.

Patrick J. Brady, a Boston delegate, is in the undertaking business when he isn't all tied up in politics. Before very long there will be a few apparently healthy looms that will be in dire need of interment.

"Put out the boom for Al Smith," the loyal Mr. Brady insists.

With apologies to Jack Conway we take the liberty of doping it out this way:

Ralston, Glass, Ritchie, or Robinson. One of these four will be nominated

PLAYHOUSES DEFY RISING MERCURY

High Temperature of Week Draws Only One Victim

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

WHEN the tempeature takes flight into upper regions it is always well to look for disaster along the rialto, for hot waves and the drama do not wander hand in hand through Elysian fields. That is, not as a regular thing. The sudden climb of the mercury early in the week had its own depressing effect upon the down town attractions but, strange as it may seem, the depression was only temporary—just a sagging of interest for a night or two, with everything back to normal, in most instances, by Thursday.

ALL of which may be taken as an indication that we are to have a very determined summer season at the theatres, with the attractions now in the field sticking close to their main purpose and preparing for heavier competition in a few weeks when "The Caddie Girl" returns to life at the Selwyn and the Shuberts send "Margery Daw" to their own Tremont street house on July 14th. It is not recalled when there has been so much early summer activity at the playhouses or when box office interest has so firmly held its own against the jumping thermometer. Out of a hard fought week only one attraction surrendered. Grant Mitchell in "The Whole Town's Talking," first wavered and then flopped, and after tonight the Plymouth will be dark.

Fenway Keeps Cool

FORESTALLING the cruelty of hot weather upon its patrons the Fenway Theatre has dipped into the family savings to the tune of $20,000 for a new cooling and ventilating system that is announced as the last word in this kind of apparatus. Reduced to mechanical inventory the cooling system comprises two ten-foot fans to bring fresh air from the outside, one five-foot fan to churn it and two seven-foot fans to empty the theatre of foul air. When in full operation there is a complete change of air in the Fenway every two minutes, and also you'll have to hold tight to your hat, for the cool breeze blow most refreshingly and sturdily.

ADMIRERS of the happy-go-lucky style of adventure that was introduced into films by Douglas Fairbanks will find it a-plenty in "The Thief of Bagdad" at the Colonial. In this picture Douglas plays the part of a ragged rascal, a hanger-on of the market places of Bagdad. His incorrigible daring takes him to the royal palace where he meets the beautiful princess. Then begin a series of wildest adventures. These take him across a sea of molten lava, under the ocean, into the clouds, and to weird places that never originated except in the imagination of the Arabian Nights story tellers. Through all the fantastic tale runs a love theme that calls for all the romantic fervor of Doug's serious moments. While he is a rascal at the start, at the end of the play he

O'BRIEN TAKES HOURS FOR MAKE-UP

Leading Man for Norma Talmadge Has His Own Troubles

"Screen players are more accurate about make-up and pay more attention to it than do speaking stage actors," says Eugene O'Brien, Norma Talmadge's leading man in "Secrets," coming to the Park Theatre, Monday.

"It would be a revelation to some stage players who have not had screen experience to observe the trouble which film stars take to attain a proper make-up for character roles. However, in making up as an old man in one of the sequences of 'Secrets,' I found that I had not merely a half hours' task ahead of me but four hours hard work each day. I spent one whole day making up for the 1923 sequence of 'Secrets.'

"Making up for stage work is a relatively simple matter, inasmuch as the actor does not come so close to his public as he does on the screen. The screen close-ups make it imperative that a make-up be perfect."

Show at Midnight

FOLLOWING a custom that has been practiced before by musical entertainment of high color, Sissle and Brake are announcing a midnight performance of "In Bamville" at the Tremont next Thursday—the night before the glorious and noisy Fourth. For this special performance the curtain will rise at 11:45 and a complete show will be given. In many ways "In Bamville" is proving a worthy successor to "Shuffle Along," which first introduced Noble Sissle and Eubie Blake to theatregoers who pay higher prices for their entertainment.

Sousa's annual Boston concerts will be given in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon and evening, September 21st. The thirty-second season of Sousa and His Band began last Sunday on the estate of Pierre Dupont, near Wilmington, Del., one of the features of the program being a new march written by Sousa and dedicated to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston. Another specialty on the Sousa program this season will be entitled "Music of the Minute," a Sousaesque tying together of half a dozen of the most popular and recent jazz hits.

FISHING TRIPS

Nothing is more refreshing to the tired business man or professional than a day's outing on the ocean, and this is only obtained by a trip to the fishing grounds on the steamer King Philip, under command of Capt. Edward W. Dixon. A day spent in fishing for cod, haddock, pollock and other finny denizens of the deep, amply repays each person.

BASS POINT

Bass Point is already gaining in popular favor as a resort where women and children, as well as tourists and vacationists can spend a pleasant day and enjoy a wonderful time. Many forms of amusement are offered which includes an immense ball room and midway.

GUIDE TO THE THEATRES

Who's Who and What's What Concerning Holdover Attractions at the Playhouses

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

Sissle and Blake in "In Bamville" at the Tremont. (Fifth week.) Something different in musical entertainment, with the fastest stepping chorus of the year. The spice of the town.

Douglas Fairbanks in "The Thief of Bagdad" at the Colonial. (Ninth week.) The kind of a picture to be seen several times, with new beauties revealed on each visit. Crowded with film magic.

"Peek-A-Boo" at the Gayety. (Second week.) Keeping the Summer alive with a musical frolic, bouquet of lovely English girls.

"Hobson's Choice" at the Copley. (Second week.) A merry comedy of provincial life in England. The last week.

"Hold Your Breath" at Tremont Temple. (Second week.) A film thriller.

Fay Bainter in "The Dream Girl" at the Wilbur. (Eighth week.) Shows what happens in dreams.

"Kempy" at the St. James. (Second week.) Small-town comedy. The last week.

Myopia Hunt Club Is Mecca of Smart Horse Lovers, Says Betty Alden

MISS SUZANNE RICHARDSON

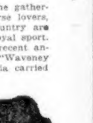
Miss Suzanne Richardson, twin sister of Miss Catherine Richardson, the clever young Boston painter. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Richardson of Brookline. (Photo by Zachrach.)

By BETTY ALDEN

THE morning canter is the only way to begin the day for many of the Hamilton-Wenham folk. With the sun throwing fresh glimmers through the leaves onto the tree hidden bridle paths, many a thoroughbred mare and many a dainty rider gallop through the woods in the clear morning air or even later as the afternoon sky is taking on the orange and flame of sunset.

Of course the Myopia Hunt Club is the gathering place for the smart North Shore horse lovers, and the estates in the surrounding country are nearly all occupied by followers of the royal sport. And speaking of the Hunt Club, in the recent annual exhibit at Reginald W. Bird's "Wayaway Farm," Framingham, a team from Myopia carried off one of the cups.

Two of the Mixter families will be at Gallouge's Point, Swampscott, for another season. Dr. and Mrs. William Jason Mixter and their family, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mixter are opening their places.



Mrs. Samuel Mixter

MISS SUZANNE RICHARDSON is the twin sister of Catherine Richardson, the clever young painter, who gave an exhibition at the Copley Art Galleries this Winter. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Richardson of Brookline and their appearance and dress are always so much alike that it is sometimes difficult to distinguish them.

A WASHINGTON and Gloucester "deb" is Miss Natalie Hammond, who was presented at the Court of St. James and was a guest at the dance at Crewe House, London, which Ambassador and Mrs. Kellogg gave in honor of the Prince of Wales and the Duke and Duchess of York.

GLOUCESTER, with its quaintness and tradition, is a haven for artists, and the Eastern Point section harbors many society folk who are often seen with easels and brushes making sketches of the picturesque spots in the little town. At "The Tablecloth," Miss Gabrielle DeV. Clements of Washington is planning a busy Summer. In the house, well concealed from passersby, Miss Clements has done much of her excellent work. In the past seasons many of her canvasses have been exhibited at East Gloucester.

Society Notes

MRS. CHARLES STEWART and her daughter, Elizabeth, are at their home, Eastern Point, Gloucester. Miss Stewart was one of the most attractive of the season's debutantes

In the paddock at "Homewood," the summer place of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe Agassiz at Hamilton, there are several fine horses, as the Agassizs are very devoted to outdoor sports and riding.

The J. Murray Kays are at "The Moorings," their Eastern Point, Gloucester, Summer place, for the season.

Mrs. Eliot Wadsworth has closed her home in Washington and has opened "Villa Latomia," at Eastern Point, where she will be joined later by Mr. Wadsworth, who is assistant secretary of the treasury.

Pop Concerts Enter Final Week of Season

Six nights remain of the present season of Pop Concerts at Symphony Hall. Agide Jacchia of the Pops Orchestra will present special program on each of these nights. Monday there will be a Polish program, Tuesday an Italian program, Wednesday a Wagner program, Thursday an operatic program, Friday, the Enquest program will be repeated, and Saturday will have a popular program for the closing night.

NORUMBEGA PARK

The new baby elk, born last Sunday at the Norumbega Zoo, has become one of the big attractions of the Park. The B. P. O. E. has adopted the newcomer as the mascot of the convention. On Monday the Brookline Lodge of Elks is to hold an outing and picnic for the poor children of their town. More than 5,000 children will be entertained.

AT HER FEET

A WOMAN looks well in a lounging attitude. Put a little pupie footstool at her feet. Rush top. Varnished turned legs, with little bands of black. $1.35. About 8 inches high, 10x14. Cunning. Well made. Sit on it, too.

DECK CHAIR has brown and tan striped canvas seat back. Adjustable. $3.00. Folds up, too. Comfortable. Well made. Pretty on verandah.

A PORCH ROCKER is painted pretty green enamel. No arms, 3 slat back. $2.00. Split reed seat. Another one, larger, with arms, has split reed back also. $5.00. Both very comfortable. Low. Last for years. Good looking on porch.

A TELEPHONE TABLE comes with little stool, slit in middle to lift up by when you want to push it in groove underneath table. $11.25. Shelf for book, lots of room on top for phone, number pad, etc. Mahogany. Takes up but little room. So much easier than standing up to phone. Good looking.

A MAHOGANY END TABLE looks well at side of big chair or end of sofa. Oblong shape, rack for books underneath. $7.00. About 25 inches long. Good looking. Pretty with little reading light or bowl of flowers on top.

A GATELEG TABLE, has solid mahogany top. 36 inches across. Prettily turned legs. Only 4 inches wide when both leaves are down. Or use it as console table, in hall, with one leaf up. $15.50. Unusual value. 3 to 4 could eat at it. A nice tea table, too. Fine in small room.

LIKE MONK'S cloth, only heavier, novelty basket weave, is material for portieres. Natural linen color. Very stunning. 50 inches wide, $2.00 a yard. Good for davenport or couch cover. And pillows. Wears forever. Doesn't show soil. New.

BRONZEY SUNFAST to go with it, for curtains, is 40 inches. $1.75 a yard. Strong, silky, artistic. Pretty with old mahogany, oak or ivory woodwork. Guaranteed.

HAND-MADE BEDSPREADS, hand-tufted candlewick, come in basket, feather, flower and bow-knot patterns. $3.98, single or double bed size. All on cream ground, with cream, gold, or orchid tufting. Save ironing. Usually cost about twice this much. Nice for summer, light weight.

AT YOUR FEET are all the bargains, useful and unusual things, if only you write to me for advice. Plan parties, room decorations, tell you what to buy for dresses, etc. There is no charge. Send loose stamp, DO NOT send envelope. Care Boston American, 6c extra postage.

CHICKIE

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

By ELENORE MEHERIN

JENNIE turned at that, but Jonathan came and kneeled at Chickie's bed. He pressed his old face in her hands, murmuring: "Chickie—Chickie girl—"

Night wores than death—night when youth creeps away and every vestige of joy—even the last shred of hope—

She was awake. She turned from them, begging to die. Oh, let her die—she would—she would—

Jennie touched her hands. She wept, and couldn't find it in her heart to say the slightest word. Jennie hid her face on Chickie's shoulder. Chickie said: "Oh, leave me, mother—go—oh, you kill me—oh, if I could die—mother, go—go—"

It was Jonathan who put his arm on Jennie's shoulder. He said quietly, "No, mother, stay."

He, looked at Chickie, but there was no chuckle in his eyes. Yet a new thing—a light—a deep, sacred light. He lifted her in his arms. He opened about her as though he were the mother.

"We'll meet it, Chickie, girl—you and your old dad together."

"No—oh, Jonathan—God—God—I won't—I tell you no!"

She tried to slip from him.

"But here, now—here, now—"

"Jonathan, I won't go there—I won't—oh, dead—it died. I held it—oh, you know—you know—"

"Here, now—here, now—"

"You won't take me back—no—no—"

"Chickie, girl, we're brave—you and your old dad. Never mind now."

And there was no escape. He knew this. Now she knew it—bear it all—stand up and take it all.

They knew. The blasting shame was here. After all.

Months of crucifixion—an awful night when she had run along a pier. The waters were so dark, so cold, lapping at her feet—Oh—that she had dropped in them—forgotten now—

She sat at her window, dressed, inert, dumb. She didn't remember having dressed—didn't recall how she came to be sitting there—so early now—so hushed and sweet the morning air. Tears stood in her eyes. They didn't fall. She made no slight, set move; the strings of her being were muted.

They knew—those two in there, knew—

World of Spring

Yet the sun flared out; a sparrow chirped; Jennie's hyacinths exhaled a perfume to the singing breeze. Beauty of a young, live world; world of spring; near, at her hand—but not for her. She was quiet in a darkness; shoved into a waste.

Beating desolately against her like waves on a ship that sinks; that gives up the fight and sinks, were the words, the frenzies, the anguish of the night just gone. She let her head drop back; let the memories bear.

Ah—Jonathan had rocked her in his arms. But Jennie said, frightened, unbelieving: "A baby! My Chickie?"

Suddenly, unbearable as a knife running through her flesh it had come to her that Jennie—little Jennie—her mother with the plump and gentle breast, would rather she had died—much rather—would give her up gladly—put her in a grave. Chickie had run then to a window; sought to hurl herself out. A doctor had come; they had forced some drink to her lips. Deadness crept upon her—a leaden absence.

It was upon her now. Six o'clock—in two hours that man with the red, heavy face would come for her; take her back to the valley—force her again through all the tragic scenes. Make her tell about the baby; how it grew so cold; how it stiffened in her arms. Oh—tell to all that whispering town the thing that she had done—the things that had been done to her.

They said she must. She must do this—But it would be a dead thing that spoke—not her—

Now, there was a stirring in that room of theirs. Now Jonathan was soothing: "Mother don't! Hush, mother. That's no way." Crying—Jennie cried all night. Too late now—

Then Jonathan was coming down the hall. She heard his weighty steps. Coming to her; coming to say those kindly things—ah, but she would see the paleness of his lips; see his face all creased with pain. Leave her alone—step over quietly and lock her door—

Suddenly there was a ringing at the bell; suddenly voices—a man who said: "You might as well, Mr. Bryce. Give her side of it. It's out, already—"

"I'll Kill You!"

Jonathan answering, suppressed, bewildered. Then rumbling in a low fury: "By God, you don't! By God, I'll kill you!"

A door slammed; a lurching, giant body pitching from wall to wall.

Chickie's hands flew to her throat. She reached her father's side. He pushed her; plowed like a tortured animal down the passage—into the kitchen. He had the morning paper in his hand. He said: "Go away—Chickie—go away—"

She said to his arm—tried to speak. Her breath whirled dizzily—in a sickness. "Let me see—"

He shook his head. She begged, half fainting: "Oh, yes—I will—I will—" and snatched the paper from his lifeless hand.

Only a line of that she saw: Boston Girl in Death Probe." Only that. The blood went hot and thick and made a blindness in her eyes. She fought it back.

She turned from him with that gone and broken look in the rugged face. She said in a quiet: "Doesn't matter." Then read it word for word—

"Summoned to attend a coroner's inquest called at Portsmouth to inquire into the death of her infant daughter two months ago, under circumstances declared mysterious. Mrs. John Clayton, Fair Oaks street, was served with a subpoena by Deputy Sheriff Bert Hicks of New Hampshire last night. She will accompany him to Portsmouth today.

"According to Hicks a quiet investigation of the case has been under way by the authorities for several weeks. The child, born on the farm of Mrs. Agnes Robbins, north of Portsmouth, is declared to have been in good health when secretly taken away by the mother four days after birth.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

SO Lorraine Thurlow became our critic, while Manuello Ortiz and I mapped out a bit of advertising for the Ortiz steamship lines. And as we worked I became increasingly certain that whatever distrust or enmity Rosa Cordova has instilled in the boy's heart for the shipping corporation and Peter Stanley as its promoter, will go down before the various relations into which he is now being brought. And he'll have his real chance as big business.

Ann Lisle

It was all of seven when our work was ended. Then Lorraine turned to young Manuelo with her lovely grand duchess air, and said sweetly:

"Perhaps you are also threatened with a lonely evening, Senor. I know into what second rate situations one drifts when there is nothing to hold one back to ideals. Would it fit in with your ideals to come with Mrs. Harrison and me to a simple dinner at home?"

"Nothing can more please me. I have nothing that shall interfere. Me, I am lonely soul in strange land."

After we had started in Lorraine's car Manuelo asked us to stop at a drug store that he might telephone a business message of great importance. We didn't suspect that his telephoning wait until we got to Mrs. Thurlow's, for both of us recognized that he wanted the privacy of a booth.

When he was gone Lorraine turned to me breathlessly and asked:

"Do you really want me to try to entangle that nice youngster in an infatuation for a woman almost old enough to be his mother? I'm surprised at you, Anne."

"Bless your heart," I laughed. "I want you to wake that child up to the fact that feminine fascination didn't give out immediately after the good fairies had dowered Rosa Cordova with her share of charm. This boy is madly enamored of her. She uses him to suit her own purposes in business and to bolster up her vanity.

"Ramon Cordova tolerates him partly because he knows Manuelo is only a child and partly because his queen—Rosa—can do no wrong in Ramon's eyes. And I suspect that she's a bad influence in a worth-while boy's life. Moreover, I fancy she's using Manuelo and the Ortiz shipping strength in South America to defeat your brother, Peter. Need I say more?"

Lorraine's hand slipped over mine.

"We'll save him if it can be done," she said. "But now I've an idea. I'm going to get out in turn and patronize a nickel-in-the-slot booth."

To Be Continued Monday.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Accepting an Escort

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper for a young man to offer to take a young lady home after a dance, when they did not go there together?

(2) Is it proper that the girl accept?

(3) How should an invitation be extended to a young man and two of his boy friends whom one does not see very often to attend a gathering when there are no written invitations? Would it be proper to telephone him and let him invite his friends?

(4) Is it good form to invite a young man to call again, or should a specified evening be set for him to call when he accompanies a girl home from a dance or party?

(5) I had an invitation about a month ago to a gathering. This invitation was by telephone. I have met this young man twice since he has invited me, but he has said nothing about the gathering. I consider the gathering called off. What is your advice?

A READER.

YES.

(2) Yes, if she wishes.

(3) It would be better form for you to write a note of invitation to the friend whom you do know, and in it ask him if he thinks that his two friends would enjoy coming to the party. Tell him if he thinks they would enjoy coming that you would appreciate his sending you their addresses. Then you could write them each an invitation.

(4) First, extend him a "general" invitation to call, and then if he asks for a definite evening, arrange for that if you wish.

(5) I think you better consider that the engagement has been negated. The gentleman should have been courteous and thoughtful enough to tell you frankly that the party was not to materialize.

LAST CALL FOR MARTHA LEE PRIZES

ONLY two more days in which to enter your favorite recipes and menus in the June contest.

Surely, you have some especially good recipe that your family thinks the best ever, or an idea for three appetizing economical meals for a day. It takes such a few minutes to jot them down. There is no reason why your recipe has not the same chance to win a prize as an expert domestic science teacher's.

The only conditions of this contest are that you shall be a member of the WNAC American Woman's Club (and a coupon for your convenience is published every Saturday and Monday on the magazine page) and your recipes or menus shall contain one or more of the food products advertised in the Boston American. A list of these products is also published Mondays and Saturdays.

Surely, you want to become a member of this "Better Club"—the practical, progressive club for New England housewives which helps you to have better homes, better food, better cooking, better clothes, better reading, better buying, better thrift, better times, better vacations, better womanhood.

Membership in this club not only entitles you to compete for beautiful and useful prizes that are offered each month, but to the personal service offered by the various departments in this paper such as assistance in your shopping, Dr. F. X. Mahoney's personal advice on your and your family's health, advice and suggestions on the care of the body, finest quality, in the beautiful anniversary pattern. It consists of six dinner knives, 6 dinner forks, 6 teaspoons, 6 tablespoons, 1 butter knife and 1 sugar shell, which is valued at $25. It comes in a beautiful velvet lined chest.

Second prize—A table stove and waffle iron of white enamel and nickel, on which you can prepare hot lunches and delightful wiener suppers; toast browns on both sides at once, and you can cook three things at a time. A treasure in any home and something that will always be proud to own.

Third prize—An artistic table lamp in bronze finish, with parchment shade, metal bound. Stands 18½ inches high and may be used for oil, gas or electricity. An ornament in every home.

Fourth prize—Star-Rite electric toaster. No toast is so delicious as that made crisp and hot at the table. A gem of a toaster, with ebonized handles to protect your fingers.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX ON BEAUTIFUL LOVE

By Beatrice Fairfax

Who Holds a Unique Position in the Writing World As An Authority on the Problems of Girls

IF you had a magic wishing ring you could use just once, and if you had a guarantee that it would bring you one gift—what would you concentrate on as you twirled the magic circlet on your finger?

Wealth? Beauty? Long life? Business success? Social position? Popularity? Fame? Learning?

Wouldn't you try to find some gift which would bring with it the hope of happiness and the freedom from loneliness which is the haunting fear to make so many lives gloomy?

There isn't one single gift that brings the happiness bestowed by the power of love. To be loved is satisfaction for many deep instincts and much thirst of power. To be able to love is to open your heart to life itself.

A lot of folks think love is purely physical or that it is a primitive instinct or mate-hunger or the desire for companionship. Maybe a bit of all these things gets trailed along by love as it grows more and more away from the primitive and comes more and more to be the flowering beauty of the water lily that is pure, though it grows out of the mud and slime.

But real love is the gift beyond compare. It is the warming sunlight that brings bud and blossom to the trees of life. It is the tender devotion that watches all night at the side of a sick child.

It is the supreme tenderness you see sometimes in beaming eyes. It is the longing to give—which is the most beautiful and satisfying thing in the world.

Real love is romance and dreams come true, and it is reality colored by the beauty of unselfishness and generosity.

When you know how to love honestly and beautifully and generously, you are in tune with life.

WHEN BOY FALLS IN LOVE

—By Wm. A. McKeever—

Noted Lecturer and Authority on Educational and Sociological Subjects

A MOTHER is naturally jealous of any girl who thinks of marrying her son, especially if he be the oldest. To understand this matter and to accept it as a fact would help to solve a good many family troubles. There is a peculiar tie of affection between a mother and her eldest son.

Many a promising boy has his love affairs, and later his marriage affairs, very much disturbed by his well-meaning mother, and her trouble-giving is derived from that instinctive tie of kinship mentioned above.

Be careful, mother. Your young son is beginning to go out with the girls, but he will never take up with one of whom you fully approve. Later, when he threatens to select a certain one as his life partner you will feel sure she is not good enough for him. Also, you will be fond of doing petty things to interfere; that is, unless you take heed in advance and prepare your mind to meet the situation constructively.

Do not attempt to pick your boy's girl companions individually. Teach him early, before he becomes seriously in love, that certain types are respectable and desirable. Inculcate certain ideals as to appearance, behavior and attainments of what you consider good and acceptable girls. Then, when your boy chooses his social companion or his love mate from among such a list, begin systematically to speak and act approvingly.

The inner voice of your boy must be the guide. You are merely an interested witness and a cordial assistant. Whenever your boy brings home any nice girl it is your duty to be 100 per cent courtesy and smiles.

HOW TO KEEP CAPACITY DOWN

Body capacity effects are present to some extent in every set. The problem is to keep them as low as possible and to locate them away from the tuning dials.

Any set in which there is excessive body capacity is poorly designed, and it is better to remodel the set altogether than attempt to improve conditions any other way.

This is the kind of set which begins to kick up ructions whenever anyone comes within a few feet of it. Tuning of such a set is practically impossible, as when the hand is withdrawn from the dial either the station is lost or an oscillation howl commences.

For the minor varieties, however, there are three excellent ways to minimize these capacity effects.

The common one is through shielding the back of the panel. It is not desirable to shield the entire panel. All shielding causes some slight loss in the set, so the less the better.

An easy way to do the shielding is simply to paint the back of the panel around the tuning dials with some metal paint, such as aluminum paint, being careful to avoid shortening the tuning shafts. Carry the paint to the ground post of the set.

Tin or copper foil, glued to the panel, is the conventional style.

The grid leak is the cause of most of the trouble with capacity effects. For this reason, the socket should be placed that the grid leak may be taken from in back. In addition the grid condensers should be mounted sideways to the panel.

On the Air Last Night

By THE LISTENER.

Still another day of the Convention, and the excitement seemed to maintain its usual pitch. I was walking on Boston Common when the Convention was called to order. The Shepard Stores had a big loud speaker hanging out of their operating room window on the eighth floor, and you could hear every word the speakers said.

I do not favor, as a rule, the use of loud speakers which squawk all over the sidewalk, but occasionally you hear one which sounds pleasing instead of repulsive.

One seldom hears a piano played as Mr. Luis Molina performed on one last night at WNAC. It was on the program furnished by the Henry Noble Cowden Camp No. 61, Sons of Veterans, and Mr. Molina played Chopin's "Fantasie Impromptu" and Rachmaninoff's "Polichinelle." Both numbers were full of fireworks, and are a stiff test of the ability of any pianist. Mr. Molina played them as though it was all in a day's work.

On this same program Antonio Morione, one of Boston's famous blind musicians, furnished some excellent numbers. I have had the opportunity of seeing Mr. Marrione perform in front of the microphone on one occasion. To hear him to an inspiration, but to see him is more than that.

When you realize how great a handicap blindness is, and then see a man like Martone in front of an unresponsive microphone play the piano, the violin, tell stories, and sing in both natural and falsetto voice, it makes you feel how great and efficient you are with all your faculties intact.

HAD TO LET HOUSEWORK GO

So Ill Husband had to do the Work. Completely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

South Bend, Indiana.—"I was all run-down, tired out, and had pains in my back and bearing-down so sore I could hardly drag myself around and was not able to do a bit of housework. My husband worked all day in the shop, and then came home and helped me all night. The doctors said I had female weakness, and there was no help but to be operated upon, and of course that would cost us a great deal. My husband heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the factory and one night he stopped at the drug store and bought me a bottle of it. I had begun to think there was no help for me, but I took three bottles of it and now I feel like myself once more. The price for three bottles wasn't so much as the doctor had charged. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough."—Mrs. DORA OSBORNE, 430 Sherman Ave., South Bend, Indiana.

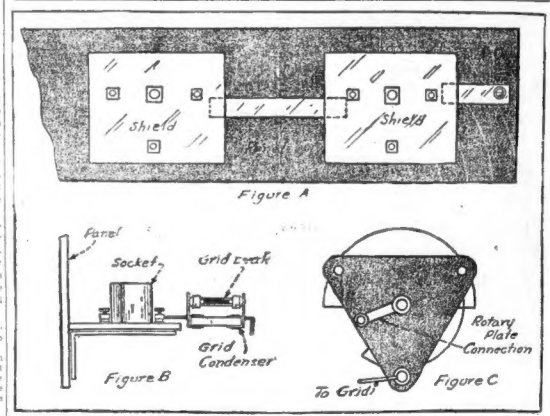
Women troubled with female weakness should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

A recent canvass reports 98 out of every 100 women are benefited by

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

AVOID CAPACITY HOWLS



BODY CAPACITY ELIMINATORS

Three ways in which body capacity may be eliminated are shown above. Figure A shows how to shield the back of the panel. Figure B indicates the proper arrangement for the grid lead, showing how it is kept as far as possible from the front of the set. Figure C shows the correct connection for the variable condensers. Note that the grid lead is connected to the stationary plates of the condenser.

REDUCING CHAT ON RADIO BY MARTHA LEE

Tells of New Garments and Gives Means for Cutting Down One's Weight

Broadcast from Station WNAC.
MARTHA LEE

STILL REDUCING

At the beaches, in the mountains, in the Back Bay, in the business office, over the back fence and in drawing rooms—wherever you see a group of women, there you may be sure the chief topic of conversation these days is rubber-reducing garments.

It is nothing short of maddening to lose ten or fifteen pounds by carefully counting calories for months, as I have, and then have a neighbor tell you of six or eight inches hip reduction through one month's wearing of these magic form fashioners.

There seems to be no question but that rubber garments do reduce—and harmlessly. The old objection was that the rubber was worn next the skin. Modern garments are worn over a vest. The corsets come in gray rubber or pink rubber and there are brassieres to match which reduce the upper part of the figure.

The garments are built on the principles of scientific massage so that every movement made as you walk, bend, climb stairs, dance, etc., even your natural breathing, massages the entire surface of the body covered by the garments. Although the corsets are as flexible as a kid glove, the rubber is heavy enough to hold the figure firmly in place and they can be worn all day long in place of the stiff corsets.

I am going to answer some of the questions that I have received about these garments:

Q.—Aren't the girdles very uncomfortable to wear?

A.—Not indeed. While the old-fashioned next-to-the skin reducing garments sometimes produced a rash and resulting discomfort, these modern garments cannot produce any such results. Of course, they do make you perspire, but any corset does to some extent and you will not realize that you have perspired until you take off the garment.

Q.—Do these rubber corsets stretch out of shape?

A.—The rubber is so resilient that as soon as you take the corset off it slips right back into its original shape. Your laces give you a trifle or five inches leeway in any case.

Q.—Aren't they too hot for Summer wear?

A.—Any corset is hot in the Summer, but experts tell us you can get better results from one hour's wearing of a rubber garment in hot weather than from a day's wear in cool weather.

Q.—Are they only for the very stout?

A.—I am told that the most popular sizes are 38 to 39 waist measure. Women are wearing these corsets to keep their figure young and guard against over-weight.

Q.—Is the reduction permanent?

A.—No reduction is permanent if you are careless about your diet and eat an over-abundance of fattening foods. If you are beginning to take on weight again wear the girdle an hour or two daily.

We are not going to have another talk on flesh reduction until Thursday, July 3, for the Shepard Stores are closed Saturdays during July and August.

BIG BUILDING SITES POPULAR AT WAVERLEY

Cottage Gardens Offers Great Attraction to Home Seekers

The H. S. Moody Land Company, No. 329 Old South Building, one of the pioneer concerns in the development of desirable home-sites, is sponsoring that of Cottage Gardens, Waverley, this season.

This property is located on Trapelo road, but a few minutes distant from the Waverley Station and from the terminus of the Waverley Elevated car line.

Cottage Gardens is beautifully situated on a high knoll and is one of the healthiest spots possible for Summer or year-round homes.

Sales of these sites have been most satisfactory this season. Home seekers and investors alike have shown an eagerness to take title to the lots in such a high class location which cannot be duplicated for such low cost.

SHERIFF FAIRBAIRN AND ASSISTANTS

AIR MAIL FROM HUB TO COAST STARTS JULY 1

Beginning July 1, mail from Boston can be sent to San Francisco via the new transcontinental air-mail route from New York in approximately 45 hours, according to a statement of Postmaster Baker, who was issued instructions how to utilize the service to patrons of the Boston postal district. The postage rate will be 24 cents an ounce or fraction thereof.

AVAILABLE TO ALL.

"The air mail service," says the postmaster, "is available for use by all sections of the United States to and from which it may expedite the delivery of mail. The air mail postage charge includes the transportation to and from the air mail route, as well as the transportation by plane.

"The postage for mail to be forwarded via air service is 8 cents an ounce, or fraction thereof, for each zone, or part of zone, in which the mail is carried by plane.

ZONE DISTRICTS.

The country has been divided into three zones, namely: First zone, New York City, N. Y., to Chicago, Ill., rate 8 cents; second zone, Chicago, Ill., to Cheyenne, Wyo., rate 8 cents; third zone, Cheyenne, Wyo., to San Francisco, Calif., rate 8 cents; total rate New York City, N. Y., to San Francisco, Calif., 24 cents.

Mail for transportation via airplane should be deposited in the Gen. Postoffice at Boston, Mass., not later than 9 p. m., and at some of the larger branches and stations at 8 p. m., for connection with the airplane leaving New York City, N. Y., at 10 a. m., arriving in San Francisco, Calif., at 5:45 p. m., the second day, or approximately 40 hours after leaving Boston.

HONOR SHERIFF FAIRBAIRN ON CAPE OUTING

Dropping for a time their cares of State, a joyous group of dignitaries embarked today on the steamer Dorothy Bradford, bound for a three-days' outing at Wellfleet.

The affair was under the auspices of the Middlesex Deputy Sheriffs and Court Officers Association, and was held in honor of Sheriff John F. Fairbairn on his twenty-fifth anniversary as head of the county officers.

Governor Channing Cox and Judge Frederick Fosdick of the Superior Court were among the distinguished guests scheduled to make the trip.

At Provincetown the merrymakers transferred to busses in which they completed the remainder of the trip to Wellfleet, where a program of banquets, athletics and entertainment of various description had been arranged.

One of the features of the program was the presentation of a purse of $200 gold to Sheriff Fairbairn on arrival of the party at Chequesset Inn.

Many eulogies of the sheriff were tendered, Attorney William H. Scharton characterizing him as "one reason why some of us, listed as Democrats, vote Republican."

The deputies and court officers, in their tribute, declared that "no better man lives, nor one more true and kind," than Sheriff Fairbairn. Even prisoners in the East Cambridge House of Correction, of which the sheriff is the head, sent their good wishes.

$20,000 DAMAGE AT 2-ALARM LYNN FIRE

A two-alarm fire today in the three-story wooden building, Nos. 748-750 Washington street, Lynn, did damage estimated at $20,000. Losses were sustained by the Standard Shoe Finding Company, Lombard and Root, outsole manufacturers, Lincoln Shoe Company and Dominic Diciplio, grocer.

The blaze worked up from the basement to the roof, damaging machinery and stock. Firemen battled it stubbornly for nearly two hours.

ALLEGED FIREBUG IS HELD IN $5,000 BAIL

William W. Turner of No. 765 South street, Roslindale, alleged incendiary, pleaded not guilty today in West Roxbury Court, to a charge of firing the Charles Sumner School, Roslindale. The case was continued to July 8 and Turner was held in $5,000 for a hearing on that date.

BROUGHT BY AMERICAN UNITY CO.

Conspiracy Against Certain Races and Classes Alleged Through Secret Agent

Chicago, June 28.—A suit for $500,000 damages against the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, a corporation organized under the laws of Georgia, was filed in Federal Court here today by the American Unity Publishing Company, alleging conspiracy against certain races and classes of citizens.

It is charged that Klan leaders employed Neufeld Jones to disrupt the opposition to the Klan as represented by the company which publishes Tolerance. Jones is alleged to have represented himself as an enemy of the Klan and to have gone to New York and collected large sums of money.

Then, it is charged, he was an active party in the strife which resulted in fist fights over control of the publication and a receivership proceeding in which Federal Judge Wilkerson dismissed the receivership suit.

As a result of enmity and bitterness, it is alleged, the publication has lost subscribers and the company suffered a loss of $500,000.

According to P. H. O'Donnell, president of the American Unity League, which was organized to oppose the Klan, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, is interesting himself in preparations for legal action against the Klan in New York, and other Federal action against the Klan and its high officials may be taken.

LT. CROWLEY CALLED TO AIR PORT SERVICE

Lieutenant Francis C. Crowley, a Boston boy attached to the organized reserves of the United States army, has been called into active duty from civilian life. He is the first reserve officer to be assigned to the Boston Air Port. Crowley is considered an expert pilot, having rendered excellent service in the World War.

HUGS GIRL IN AUTO; PAYS $20 IN COURT

"Necking" may have its place, but said place is not in an automobile while one of the "neckers" is driving, John A. Bengston, twenty-eight years old, of No. 20 Calvin street, Waltham, learned this fact to his cost today.

It cost him just $20 in East Cambridge Court. He was arrested for driving along a Cambridge street with one arm clutching a young woman. The police charged him with reckless driving.

HELD AS BURGLAR IN THEFT OF COLOGNE

Joseph Hayes, No. 43 Bank street, Cambridge, was before Judge Stone in East Cambridge Court today, charged with breaking and entering the home of Mark McCauley in Cambridge and stealing some women's clothing and a bottle of cologne. He was held for the Grand Jury in $5,000 bail.

Graduation Bride

MRS. WILLIAM WAGNER

The day after she was graduated from the Quincy High School, Miss Dorothy B. Simpson of No. 130 Atlantic street, Quincy, became the bride of William Wagner of Allston in Union Congregational Church, Wollaston.

GIRL WEDS ON DAY AFTER GRADUATION

Graduated from high school one day, married the next, was the experience of Miss Dorothy Beatrice Simpson, seventeen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Simpson, No. 113 Atlantic avenue, Quincy.

Two of the biggest events in a girl's life were a none too heavy two-day program for the popular and pretty Quincy High School girl, who was graduated June 25.

Next day she was married to William Wagner, an Allston business man, at the Union Congregational Church, Quincy. Classmates were her attendants.

They are spending their honeymoon and the Summer at Old Orchard, Me., and will reside in Allston on their return.

BLOODSTAINS LEAD TO ARSON ARREST

Bloodstains discovered on a broken window pane in the Charles Sumner School, Roslindale caused the police to bring a formal charge of arson against William W. Turner of No. 765 South street, Roslindale.

Turner had been arrested by state police on suspicion of being the firebug who set several fires in West Roxbury recently.

A cut on the little finger of Turner's right hand appeared to have been recently inflicted.

His fingerprints and those on the broken pane of glass are identical, the police say.

'FOLLIES' GIRL WINS HUSBAND

Bride of Westerner Who Came to Convention and Gave $2,000 Party

New York, June 28.—Well, the Democratic national convention has accomplished one thing. It brought Addie Rolfe a husband out of the West.

Miss Rolfe, said to be the most glorified of the glorious girls of the "Ziegfeld Follies," stopped tripping the light fantastic today long enough to announce that she was married Thursday to Cecil Silliman, wealthy Detroit real estate man, who came here to see the Democratic convention.

Sudden? Why, yes. But aren't all "Follies" marriages sudden. They get more space in the papers that way.

As Miss Rolfe explained it, she and Silliman met at Atlantic City a week ago Sunday. Silliman gave a big party to the company at the opening night of the "Follies" there.

It cost him $2,000 and later—his single blessedness. The next day Miss Rolfe wore a ring that made your eyes blink.

Last Thursday she and Silliman went to the Municipal building and were married by J. J. McCormack, deputy clerk. The dancer was married under her real name, Adelaide Saltzer.

Mrs. Silliman said she would remain with the "Follies" until September, when she will be married in movies to be produced by her husband.

O'CONNELL LEAVES O'BRIEN'S OFFICE.

D. T. O'Connell

Copyright, Harris and Ewing.

Daniel T. O'Connell, appointed an assistant district attorney of Suffolk County about seven months ago, severed his connection with that office today to resume private practice.

Mr. O'Connell had intended to retire June 1, but remained to finish uncompleted cases at the request of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien and Judge Elias Bishop of the Superior Court.

During his service as assistant district attorney he tried a great many important cases, obtaining a majority of verdicts for the Commonwealth. At one time he tried thirty-five cases in twenty-seven days.

HUSBAND IS HELD ON TWO CHARGES

Mrs. Virginia Eagan, No. 139 Henderson street, Arlington, complained to police that her husband, Erman W. Eagan, No. 104 Lyman street, Brockton, had failed to support her. When they checked up on Eagan who was married December 28, 1923, they found that he had falsified his age in his marriage intentions.

So the youth was hailed into East Cambridge District Court today on charges of non-support and perjury. He was granted a continuance until Thursday at his own request and held in $2,000 bail. The latter also surprised him.

ARMY WORM RUINS ILLINOIS CORN CROP

Chicago, June 28.—More than one-fourth of the counties in Illinois have been invaded by the army worm. A big percentage of the young corn has been cut down level with the ground in many parts of the State.

The worms feed on the young corn, practically consuming all of the leaves, leaving nothing but the central rib. They are moving in great armies, as they did ten years ago.

YOUTH WITH $300,000 SPURNS FLAPPERS

"You can tell anyone who wants to know that I'm not looking for a wife—I've got my own girl in my own crowd, and I'm not looking for anyone else."

Ambitious flappers—bobbed-haired and gray-haired—are hereby warned to "lay off."

Hyman Lederman, twenty-five-year-old Malden youth, whose smiling courtesy won him a cool $300,000 from a local benefactress, whose name he refuses to divulge, will share the Chestnut Hill mansion included in the legacy with a Main street girl.

LOYAL TO FRIENDS.

"Oh, I know what people think about these things," said Lederman, as he polished an expensive sport roadster outside the modest family home on Bryant street, Faulkner, "people think that a lot of girls will be interested in the money and expect me to make a great match.

"But I've got my own crowd—the same friends I had when I didn't have three hundred thousand—and it'll be a girl from that crowd that I'll marry.

"That clause about taking possession of the Chestnut Hill estate only when I have married, seems wise enough. What would I do with a big place like that, all by myself?

PLANS TO WORK.

"I cannot tell the name of my benefactress. Gossip has been unkind to me and might be also to her, if I permitted a disinterested act of philanthropy to be tossed about on everyone's tongue with the name of this woman. When she dies, perhaps, but not now.

"It is enough to say that she has much social standing and is widely known in her own circles here. I am very sure that this lady would be most disturbed if her name were known and it is part of the agreement that it shall not be.

"I shall continue to work for a living. My father has worked hard as a tailor to support us and I expect to work just as hard at my real estate business as though I had no fortune."

LEWIS TO ARRIVE TONIGHT FOR TITLE MAT GO WITH STASIAK

CHAMPION MAY LOSE TITLE

By JACK CONWAY

STRANGLER LEWIS, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will eat brown bread and beans in Boston tonight. He will also drink several glasses of our fine water. The champion says that if more people drank several quarts of water a day and worried less about prohibition they would not be troubled so much by hot waves.

Lewis didn't arrange a long train ride to Boston from Kansas City merely for the purpose of eating beans and brown bread and drinking health giving water. His mission is a finish mat conflict with Stanley Stasiak, Polish champion, whom he battles in a bout at the Boston Arena on Tuesday night.

This contest is as important to Lewis as the Democratic Convention is to the various candidates, "dark horses" and other gentlemen who are anxious to run the United States.

LEWIS was recently defeated by Stasiak in a contest in this city. The official decision of Sam Avery of St. Joseph, Mo., was in favor of the champion. Officials' verdicts, however, never did amount to anything when the public does not approve of them. This is especially true in athletics where a champion must have the backing of the fans.

In their recent match, Stasiak scored a fall against Lewis. He would have counted with a second fall if Referee Avery had not come to the aid of Lewis. The Polish champion was disqualified for using rough tactics. Almost as ridiculous as it would have been to have awarded Firpo a win over Dempsey because the latter hit too hard. Wrestlers and boxers are not supposed to be given the same protection that is accorded high school girls in tennis matches.

FORTUNATELY, Sam Avery will not be referee on Tuesday night. A New England referee will have charge of festivities within the ring. This means that Lewis must pin Stasiak's shoulders to the canvas twice or LOSE.

* * *

LEONE LABRIOLA, latest Italian sensation, is working out with Stasiak. He weighs 222 pounds and looks like a fine prospect. He will tackle Bull Young of New York in the semi-final.

THERE will not be any boxing matches in Boston next week. The promoters will rest their weary brains by lingering near the sea and sea waves. Hot weather never did boom boxing, especially when the contests are held indoors. Perhaps before the Summer is over Boston will have some outdoor matches. Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Suffolk A. A. has signed a contract with the management of Braves Field. The Wigwam will hardly be large enough if Jack Sharkey keeps on winning. Everybody appears anxious to see the young Roxbury star in action. The fact that Sharkey will be battling Dempsey next year adds to the natural interest in a real fighting man.

BOXER HIT BY AUTO WILL RECOVER

New York, June 28.—The condition of Carl Duane, featherweight boxer, injured Thursday night when an automobile overturned near Roslyn, L. I., was reported fair today at Nassau County Hospital.

Duane was not expected to recover when he suffered a fractured spine, punctured lung, broken collarbone and probable internal injuries. He believed his fighting career is over.

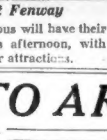
He was regarded as a leading contender for the lightweight title. Four others, pinned under the car, were less seriously hurt.

Mishap Cost Schoolboy Star Trip to Olympics

By FRED C. LANE

A BOAT load of American athletes have landed in France where they will defend the laurels of Uncle Sam against the world in a short time.

Somewhere about East Boston today is Ralph Colson, for four years the best athlete in the Boston High Schools on the cinder path, and a lad who made every effort to win a berth on the Olympic team only to be denied that honor by misfortune.



Ralph Colson

A few days before the trial events were to take place at the Harvard Stadium Colson was run into by a baseball player while practicing for the hop, step and jump and injured himself.

He was unaware of the damage done until he attempted to try his favorite event.

Up to this time Colson was doing 48 feet 6 inches. The week previous to the big meet he won the event in competition, doing 48 feet 3 inches. First place at the Stadium trials was won by Graham with a leap of 47 feet.

It was a costly collision for Colson, for it prevented him from competing with the stars at the big arena across the Charles. There is little doubt in the mind of Head Coach Lawson Robertson but what Colson would have carried off first honors.

He was being groomed for the event all Spring, and was just at the peak of his form when the accident took place. So well did Coach Robertson think of this lad that he stopped him from competing on the gridiron last Fall one line of sport at which Colson starred.

Last season Colson captained the University of Penn freshman track team and, according to reports coming from the Quaker town, the East Boston boy will be a big point scorer next year.

Colson will spend the Summer in training regardless of the unfortunate accident. He will hike off to Professor Hibbard's camp in Hillsboro, N. H., to act as instructor until the opening of school.

FINNEGAN LOSES TO CHAPMAN IN HARD BOUT

Red Chapman defeated Honey Boy Jim Finnegan in the main bout at the Faneuil A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building last night. The contest went the full distance.

Chapman scored a semi-knockdown in the third round. He sent Finnegan to his hands with a left hook that landed on the back of Honey Boy's head.

Chapman had five rounds, Finnegan four and one was even, so that it is easy to see that it was a close contest. Chapman did not have much of a margin. He punched cleaner. Finnegan opened an old cut over Chapman's eye in the fourth round.

Johnny Brassil of Cambridge was referee. Pat Moran and John Glackin judges, and Arthur Burns, timer.

Steve Gustin of South Boston, long out of the ring, defeated Bert Arnold of Peabody in the opener, the referee stopping the contest in the fifth when Arnold was about done. Gustin received the award.

Pete Stamurti of Nashua, N. H., won the next bout in three rounds, defeating Al Shanon of Revere, both of Lynn in a rugged mixfest. The towel was thrown for Shannon as the third round ended.

Freddie Warren of South Boston was given a close decision over Tommy French of Brookline in the eight-round semi-final. Warren did considerable slapping and many thought French's cleaner blows should have counted in his favor.

ZUNA IS PICKED IN DISTANCE EVENT

Paris, June 28.—Although the American Olympic team coaches and officials have definitely decided the makeup of the track and field team and field entries with the French Olympic committee, the alternates continued active work today on the theory that some 11th hour development may make possible changes.

The final marathon trials which resulted in the elimination of Ralph A. Williams of Quincy, Mass., in favor of Frank Zuna, have added confidence to the camp of the distance contenders, since the Newark man is believed to be one of the strongest eligibles for the title now held by Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish star.

The condition of the athletes is improving rapidly.

The only men apparently definitely out of competition due to illness are Patsy Buffalo, New York boxer, who is improving, but still is in the hospital with stomach trouble and Percy Marxter, the wrestler, whose arm has not responded sufficiently to treatment for neuritis. John Parley, the swimmer, who turned an ankle was able to exercise today and expects to be in condition for the aquatic championships. John Romig, the 3,000-meter star, removed the bandages from his injured ankle today for the first time and tried a light jaunt but was still unable to show speed.

The women swimmers at Les Tourelles were put through preliminary trials today with the result that Florence Chambers of California may be given a place in the 100-meters back stroke competition. She covered the distance in the good time of 1:32, and will get a final test probably July 2 to determine whether she or Doris O'Mara goes in the third entry place. Anna McCleary of Baltimore was also tried out, but eliminated as her time was only 1:44 2-5.

The American camp is expected to be completed with the arrival tomorrow of the squad of twenty Yale oarsmen and a score of naval athletes Sunday on the battleship West Virginia.

Avon Races to Be Run Off Today

Avon, Conn., June 28.—Friday's light harness racing at the Avon track was postponed on account of poor track conditions caused by heavy showers. The three events will be staged this afternoon, and consist of the 2.18 and 2.09 pacing classes, and the 2.34 trot.

RACING DATES SET BY NEW S. S. Y. A.

Racing dates for the season were set at the first meeting of the newly formed South Shore Yachting Association, held at the Quincy Yacht Club.

The members of the association are the Squantum, Wollaston, Hingham, Weesagussett and Quincy clubs and the Hull division of the Boston Yacht Club.

The first race will be sailed Sunday, Aug. 17, under the auspices of the Squantum and Wollaston clubs. On Sunday Aug. 31, the association's racing craft will meet at Quincy as guests of the Quincy and Weesagussett clubs.

The final race will be sailed at Hull, under the auspices of the Hull and Hingham clubs. On July 27 the six clubs will sail to the scene of a harbor picnic.

A pennant with a blue field and red border and bearing a foul[ed] anchor and the letters "S. S. Y. C." was adopted by the association.

Plans are now completed by the Quincy Yacht Club for a Fourth of July celebration of practically four days duration, opening on the evening of the Third with an entertainment and dance.

A varied program for the Fourth includes yacht and power boat races, swimming and diving contests, canoe and row-boat races.

HAGEN IS NOW AFTER FRENCH GOLF TITLE

Buffalo, N. Y., June 28.—Walter Hagen's great triumph in the British open championship entitles him without question to the ranking as the greatest competitive golfer of his time and his victory will bring great joy to the American home bred whose ambition is to win as many or more major golf championships than the record of seven, now held by Harry Vardon.

There are but two major events a year, the American and the British, and Hagen now has four big wins to his credit—two American titles and two British. He is but thirty-two years old and with at least twenty more chances before him he will likely catch Vardon and in these days when the competition is fast and furious.

Hagen will remain in Europe to play in the French open, a title he won five years ago and then return to America to resume exhibition golf with Joe Kirkwood.

WILLIAMS WINNER IN TENNIS SINGLES

Wimbledon, June 28 (By A. P.)—Norris Williams, II., today defeated J. J. Richardson, 4-1, 6-1, 6-4, in the singles of the Wimbledon tournament. Mrs. Colgate defeated Miss Evelyn Colyer, 6-3, 6-4.

The defeat of Miss Colyer by Mrs. Colgate was one of the upsets of the day and brought out an unexpected opponent for Miss Helen Wills, the American champion.

By her victory Mrs. Colgate moves into the last eight of the women's singles and meets Miss Wills either Monday or Tuesday.

Watson M. Washburn, America, defeated A. S. Watt, England, 6-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Weymouth Game Sunday

North Weymouth Owls will meet Rangers of East Weymouth tomorrow at Overlook Park, North Weymouth. Sullivan and Millet will be the battery for the Owls. Sullivan, the iron man, has pitched six games winning all from the best teams in vicinity.

FIRPO SIGNS UP FOR BATTLE WITH WILLS

Buenos Ayres, June 28.—Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, and Juan Homs, representative of Tex Rickard, signed the preliminary contract for a fight between Firpo and Harry Wills. The bout will take place in New York or New Jersey some time around August 30.

Under the contract Firpo is guaranteed $100,000, with an option of 37½ per cent. of the gate receipts. There has already been deposited in Buenos Ayres for Firpo $75,000, and the remainder is to be deposited here 10 days before the fight is to take place.

Firpo will sail for the United States not later than July 5.

SOLDIERS GIVE FISTIC ACTION AT FT. BANKS

Before a crowd of 500 fight fans, Fort Banks put on the best bouts that have ever been held at this Post. All bouts were evenly matched and hard fought and the fans left the ringside more than satisfied with the show.

In the opening bout, Sailor Cieslski, U. S. Navy, won over Joe Monti, East Boston, in six rounds.

Kid Combs, U. S. Navy, defeated Scotty Carroll, U. S. Army, six rounds.

Granville Dow, Fort Banks, was awarded the decision in the semi-final of eight rounds over Battling McLeod, U. S. Navy Yard.

This bout is third straight bout that Dow has won since his arrival at Fort Banks, the first two bouts he won by the K. O. route.

Battling McLeod has challenged the soldier to fight him a return bout in the next show, that will be held at Fort Banks, Mass., Thursday, July 10th, 1924.

In the ends bout Happy Gears, U. S. Navy, received the decision over Mickey O'Connor, U. S. Army, after ten rounds of fast and clever boxing.

The next show will be held at Fort Banks, Thursday, July 10, and plenty of fast boxing is assured.

BATCHELDER IS NEW MALDEN COACH

Henry E. Batchelder, head of the mathematics department of Malden High, was elected to coach the athletic teams at the High school, filling in the vacancy made by the resignation of Jack McDonald.

Coach Batchelder assisted Jack McDonald, who is now at Watertown High, with last year's team.

Previous to coming to Malden, Batchelder taught at West High of Minneapolis at which school he won two championships. During the war he was physical director of Fort George for a time. Later, he resigned the position to accept an appointment in the Navy as ensign.

He is a graduate of New Hampshire State College and Chicago University, at which schools he was a leader in athletics. In addition to football, Coach Batchelder excels in track. He was more or less accountable for the fine showing that Malden made on the banked corners last year.

This is the first time in the history of scholastic sports at Malden High that a teacher has been elected to coach any high school team.

ANDY COAKLEY TO MANAGE PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield, June 28.—Andrew Coakley, Columbia University baseball coach, and former Holy Cross and major league pitcher, has been signed as manager of the Pittsfield Baseball Club of the Eastern League and will begin his duties at once as bench manager. He is to succeed William Gilbert, former New York National League Club second baseman, who resigned a week ago. Frank Stapleton has been handling the club since Gilbert resigned.

GOLFER LEITH DIES OF BULLET WOUND

Denver, June 28.—Willis Leith, widely known professional golfer, is dead from a bullet wound received last Saturday in the office of John R. Morgan, advertising man. Morgan has been held by police.

Leith and Morgan quarreled, the police said, Leith asserting Morgan had sought his arrest on a charge of possessing liquor, and Morgan claiming Leith owed him money.

"DRY" ZONE DEMANDED FOR U. S. ATHLETES AT COLOMBES

SALOONS ARE TO BE CLOSED

Paris, June 28 (A.P.)—The village sector in which the American Olympic athletes will be quartered at Colombes must be "dry" according to a resolution adopted by the American Olympic committee requesting the French committee to remove the bars on the principal streets of the town together with all signs advertising spirituous liquors.

The committee does not fear that the American contenders will overstep the bounds of training rules but believes that safety first should be the policy and temptation kept out of sight. Samuel Goldman of San Francisco has been delegated to take the matter up with the French authorities and explain that speedy action in this matter is desired.

WATER BROUGHT FROM U. S. IS CONDEMNED.

While the prohibition question has been causing some [illegible] at Colombes the problem of an adequate water supply at Rocquencourt, where the main body of the American athletes is housed, is uppermost. Despite some difference of opinion on the subject Dr. Graeme Hammond, head of the medical staff, has condemned the water brought from the United States during the [illegible] analysis showed [illegible] and [illegible] athletes.

The committee is provided [illegible] water to meet the emergency and Dr. Hammond will test the Rocquencourt water [illegible] usable.

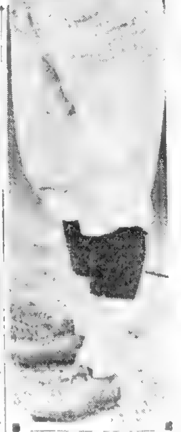
It has been decided to abandon the plan to request a revision of the Olympic scoring system [illegible] place [illegible] entries [illegible] most cases [illegible] points.

The committee now considers the proposal move inadvisable, as the French settled the question definitely in agreement with other nations and the United States does not desire to reopen the issue and cause an everlasting controversy. Colonel Robert A. Thompson, chairman of the American Olympic Committee, says a more equal scoring basis is possible but the Americans are willing to accept the system chosen, confident that it makes no material difference in the competition in the long run.

AMERICANS CONFIDENT OF MAKING LARGE SCORE.

The French system gives some advantages to small teams of stars, such as Finland but the Americans predict a [illegible] up a decisive margin regardless of the scoring method.

HEAVY HITTING HARRIS



Joe Harris, Red Sox standby whose return to the game will help the Fohlites in their pennant fight. The big boy is hitting for .347.

OLYMPIC SQUAD STARTS REAL TRAINING

By BASIL D. WOON

Paris, June 28.—Two [illegible] of American athletes, wearing grins all over their faces, pulled into the St. Lazare Station. They are scheduled to participate in the Olympic games.

Apart from the official welcome by members of the Olympic Committee, several hundred Americans gathered at the station to greet the American athletes as they mounted [illegible] for Prince Murat's chateau at Rocquencourt, after a five hour [illegible] morning.

The athletes [illegible] wonderful stories of their voyage. They say they trained continually, the ship being partitioned for each division of sports. Even high jumping and hurdling were practiced on the hurricane deck.

Lawson Robertson, head coach, intimated that the athletes will be given only rare glimpses of Paris, and then only under "heavy guard," such a decision being taken when Lawson was informed that bevies of beautiful Parisiennes were preparing to welcome the gladiators in traditional fashion.

"Before the games Paris will be off bounds; afterward they will be free to accept any hospitality that is extended," said Robertson, who contemplates a [illegible] to keep his husky flock from breaking training.

The men are all brimming over with optimism and confidence.

CAMBRIDGE B. B. C. VS CANTAB K. C. SUNDAY

In the line-up of the Caseys is a great number of [illegible] and the B. B. C. will have already [illegible] such stars as W. Thron, B[illegible], Checker [illegible] and Rosary Catholic [illegible] capacity.

MEDFORD WINNER IN TENTH INNING

Last evening on the Fulton street grounds the New [illegible] defeated the Abbo [illegible] in a regular Twilight league contest in ten innings by the score of 6 to [illegible].

Hevey scored the winning run when Kroh allowed Dee's throw to get away from him.

U. S. OLYMPIC FENCERS STILL IN RUNNING

Paris, June 28.—The United States, Argentina, Hungary and France remain in the running after the first day's Olympic fencing foils [illegible] while Spain and Holland have been eliminated. Both the United States and Argentina defeated Holland while Spain [illegible] to both France and Hungary. The United States won by [illegible].

Of the United States fencing team [illegible] Calnan won three matches each and Jeter and Boyce split even with two victories and two defeats.

PUTTING THE WIN IN QUINN

JUST a few words on baseball—and a well deserved boost for the Red Sox.

Lee Fohl and his brave band of boys are fighting their very heads off to put Boston back on the baseball map while Bob Quinn, the owner of the club, plays every position every day from his seat in the grand stand.

Everybody is doing his and her bit to help the cause along but we MUST do some more. One hundred per cent. support—six days a week—and the old Red Sox will go over the top.

Some of you veteran ball fans can recall the good old days when we had pennant winning clubs in Boston—the days of the Royal Rooters and "Tessie." Those were the happy days and we can bring them back if we all get together and root and root hard.

Boston can support a pennant very nicely and the stage is all set to bring the old bunting back.

The fight for top honors in the American League is the most bitter and closest in the history of the American League. Only a few games separate the clubs and a few wins or looses either way will upset the whole works.

The Sox are only a step behind—right up there fighting—fight with them.

J. B. GILLOOLY.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By Wm. F. Kirk

I SEEN a ad in the joiner with offerd a prize of 5 dollars for the best jingel about McGinty's Soap. I dount know how good soap it is, I dount know many different kinds of soap.

Wen I told Pa & Ma that I was going to see if I cud win the prize they both gave me the laff.

You better let me rite the jingel for you, Bobbie, sed Pa, you are too young & ignorant to rite a jingel, sed Pa.

I will rite one, I sed, & you & Ma can each rite one & we will send the best one in & git the prize, I sed.

All rite, sed Pa, so each one of us got busy & rited a jingel. Ma had her jingel fird, it was like this: White are the robes of Faith & Hope——

They wash them with McGinty's Soap.

I think that is swell, Ma, I sed. I bet that will win the prize. It is better than the one I rote, I sed.

Wait a minit, wait a minit, sed Pa, listen to this one wich I have dashed off, sed Pa.

McGinty's Soap talks off the grime.

That is the best knees every time!

I like that prity good, too, I sed. Here is the one wich I rote, I sed, & then I red them the jingel wich I rote. It went like this:

The snow is white on the mountain slope.

The angels washed it with McGinty's Soap.

Bobbie, sed Pa, I believe I like that one better than any of the others, Pa sed.

I like mine best, sed Ma, but we will send them all in, Ma sed, & I am sure that one of them will win the prize.

I think mine will, I sed, & so does Pa.

We rite rite sum more, sed Ma. The more we rite the more chanst we will have of winning the prize. So we all rote a other jingel. Ma rote——

We ought to use McGinty's Soap.

Pa rote this one.

I'm giving you the inside dope. I wasp outside with McGinty's Soap.

& I rote this one.

McGinty's Soap is made quite clean.

But I dount like no soap what-ever.

Well, we sended in all the jingels & now we are figgetin what we are going to do with the free wen we git the prize. I hope I win it. I will go me sumthing with the munney if they dount pay in soap, that wud be fearce.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John C. Medbury

THE Pullman Company has decided to make its berths larger. It should be good news to travelers, as a man's mind will then be able to go to sleep at the same time he does do.

AS it is now, half of him starts awake while the other half takes a nap.

THE upper berths are so small that a man has to stick his head out in the aisle to yawn.

AND if he wants to stretch he has to get off the train.

PULLMAN cars must have been invented by somebody who was suffering from insomnia.

ONE woman took her little son from Boston to San Francisco and he suffered all the way from growing pains.

HE didn't have room enough to grow.

SHE had to let him smoke cigarettes to stunt his height so that he could be comfortable.

ONE man has all his meals served in his berth and he got so stout that he had to wait before he could get out of bed.

VERY few people can ever get to sleep in a Pullman car. If you really want a good night's rest you should give the porter forty cents and have him knock you unconscious.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

BEWARE of the soap you find on a public washstand.

While much has been written about the danger that lurks in a cake of soap—about the ills you will suffer from the use of soap not suited to your skin texture, yet the real danger does not come from the composition of the soap.

It comes from the streaks of dirt which you find on the public washstand. Exhaustive public health investigations have disclosed the fact that the dirt from soiled hands that is left on a cake of soap contains some organic dirt. The organic dirt on the soap may or may not be disease-producing germs, but in most cases the germs are dangerous. Any number of careful bacteriological examinations have proved this.

The public cake of soap has been outlawed in many States. It should be barred everywhere.

If you must use soap you find in a public place, rinse the cake thoroughly in water before rubbing it on your own skin. By the same token, when you have finished using the soap rinse it off for the next person.

Never, under any circumstances, use a cake of soap, no matter how clean it may appear, that has been previously used by a person suffering from a skin disease.

In the matter of selection of the kind of soap to use, your skin will tell you whether or not it suits you. There are any number of well-known soaps that are pure—all made by reputable, high-grade firms that have fortunes invested in their business enterprises. Seek out the brand that suits your skin best. You are a better judge on that matter than all the doctors.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Please tell me what are the signs of tapeworm.

A sign of tapeworm is loss of weight and abnormally large appetite. Do not take any advertised "worm medicine." Consult your family physician and let him verify the diagnosis and prescribe.

On awakening in the morning, I find that my nose swells. Can you tell me the cause of this?

It would be impossible for me to tell you the cause of your trouble, but I would advise you to go to the next available clinic of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary on Charles street, Boston, for diagnosis and treatment.

Kindly tell me if eating too many raw onions is harmful. Is the best way to eat an egg cooked.

M. E. S.

Eating too many raw onions would be harmful to the ordinary person, so that it probably would affect the digestion. The soft-boiled egg is most easily digested for the ordinary person.

Clothes For Girls

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me addresses of people who can use the following articles and I will send them underwear for girls about seven or twelve, infant's clothes, clothes for girl about three, bungalow aprons, size 38.

MRS. E. S.

Thank you. We are sending you the address of Mrs. A. L. J., who has girls three and ten and of Mrs. C. P. P., who appeals for a friend who wears size 38 and is expecting a visit from the stork.

Who Wants Black Outfit?

Editor Helping Hand:

Would you please send me the address of some woman in need of an entire black outfit, which is in perfect condition. It would suit a size 38-40.

MRS. M. T. D.

Thank you. We are going to hold this generous offer for replies, as there is surely someone who particularly wants black.

Getting Discouraged

Editor Helping Hand:

I am only seventeen years of age and am out of work and my mother is not working either. Grandmother is a cripple and my sister is not able to work. Can you find someone who has some clothes they do not want, as we have no clothes to go out in. I am getting terribly discouraged, but try to keep smiling just the same. We all take size 4 in shoes and size 38 in clothing.

MILDRED.

Clothes For Boy of 10

Editor Helping Hand:

I have both winter and summer clothes for a boy, size 10. Do you know a needy boy?

MRS. W. J.

Thank you. Mrs. M. B., whose address has been sent you, has seven children, the oldest of whom is a boy who can wear what you offer.

Sends Long List

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a few things to give away, and if anyone can use them I would be more than glad to send them anywhere. I have five white short dresses for about eight months to one year, nearly new, shoes from first size to 3½, four suits white cashmere stockings, first size and four pairs size 3 or 3½, and a brown sweater to fit a baby about one and a half to two years. For a woman I have a checked gingham, size 38, and a voile blouse, 38-40. I also have some long white dresses for a baby that some one could use and two pink crocheted sweaters for infant. Please let me know who can use these things.

MRS. R. P.

Thank you for your long list. We have sent you two addresses and told what things are suitable for each.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Except in two or three hotels, headquarters for candidates, you would not know that the Democratic convention had brought in extra people to New York. It is figured that something like 200,000 out-of-town visitors are in New York every day. So the 1,100 delegates and their friends are little more than a drop in the bucket.

I went to the theatre, to one of the best plays now running and found the place half empty.

A large restaurant only a few blocks from Madison Square Garden hasn't found its business increase perceptibly.

Having been selected as a member of the entertainment committee for one of the States, I had expected to be kept on the jump. But the visitors are very easy on their entertainers. I am told by those in the "know" that the first question usually asked on arrival was, "How about a bottle?" Assured that this could be provided, nothing else seemed to matter very much.

Some of the younger blades expressed a desire to do some dancing, and wondered if partners could be procured. It was easy enough to give them the right kind of an answer to this request also.

Of course many of the visitors wanted to know how to go about seeing this, that and the next famous place in the metropolis. But the desire usually was to go around independently and not in Cook's Tour gangs.

It has been pathetic—or laughable—to watch big guns in their own communities enter leading hotels and look around for an ovation. You could see them peer from side to side, all ready to greet and be greeted. After a first tour all over the ground, a puzzled expression would come over their faces. Then they would start the search all over again. But the best that any of them could do, so far as my observation went, was to run into someone from their own home town.

In Squidunkus a delegate or other visitor may be kow-towed to from one end of Main street to the other, but when he comes to New York it is a painful shock to him to find that his name is mud.

Nobody counts for very much in New York's six millions.

Have you noticed in your own locality any brightening of sentiment? I am beginning to find a turning away from the too-great pessimism that has prevailed for several months.

* * *

W. C. Durant has treated the automobile world to another surprise. He has succeded in annexing, as vice-president of Durant Motors, Colin Campbell, who played a forceful part in building up Chevrolet's distributing organization. Since the beginning of the year, there has been speculation as to where Mr. Campbell would alight, but it had not been expected he would throw in his lot with Mr. Durant.

As a sales manager, Mr. Campbell is a driver. The last time I heard him address an enormous gathering of distributors he finished with this striking phrase: "Winners have to be whipped across the tape."

CHAIN STORES FEATURES IN NEW YORK

Chain store issues were features in week-end New York stock market trading, both Kresge and Woolworth moving to new 1924 tops. Kresge jumped 5 and Woolworth around 2.

General Electric was at a new 1924 peak, up over a point.

Nickel Plate was up 2 points to a fresh top, while peak prices for the year were also attained by Schulte, Savage Arms, Interboro R. P., Railway Steel Spring, P. & W. Va. Ry., Jewel Tea preferred, Columbia Gas, Barnsdall "A" and American Express.

Schulte lifted over 3. U. S. Rubber first preferred and Corn Products were heavy. Associated Dry Goods gained 3.

The coppers began to show signs of life. Anaconda, American Smelting, Utah and Cerro de Pasco gained a point. Kennecott, Inspiration, Mother Lode, Magma and Chile lifted fractionally.

In the bond market, Serbian 8s sold at a new 1924 high. The tendency was upward.

There is a steady exchange going on of Liggett's International, Ltd., common stock for United Drug common. They are exchangeable on a share for share basis. Of the $7,000,000 combined class A and B common of the former over 70 per cent is now owned by the United Drug Company, the parent company, and Liggett's International is doing fully as well as last year, when it earned net profits of over 29 per cent. on its common capital.

Coppers Are Leaders in Week-End Boston Market

Coppers were leaders in the week-end market on the Boston Stock Exchange. Gains of a point to more than 2 points appeared in Calumet & Arizona, Kennecott, Quincy, Isle Royale, Mohawk and Copper Range.

Edison Electric added better than a point, but Pacific Mills was off a point to a new low for the year, reflecting continuation of the country-wide textile depression.

Merrill, Lynch & Co. and George H. Burr & Co., will offer on Monday a block of common stock of the Ginter Co., which owns a chain of three hundred grocery stores in eastern and central Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire besides eight restaurants in Boston.

Capitalization of the company consists of $1,617,270 8 per cent. preferred stock, par $10 and 150,000 shares no par value common stock. Sales of the chain in 1923 were $11,476,859 and net profits $615,028.

It is expected that the common stock will be listed on the Boston and New York Stock Exchanges. It is being offered at 24½.

EXPORTS JUMP IN RUBBER INDUSTRY

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

Contrary to the general impression created by the decline of tire stocks, I find the rubber industry in New England, despite a few curtailments and shutdowns that are at least in part seasonal, has been doing very well this year to date.

What has been happening is partially mirrored by the U. S. Department of Commerce report sent me for "release" today.

This shows that the value of rubber goods exported in May, 1924, has been exceeded in only two months, March and April, 1923, since the close of the boom period in 1920, according to the Rubber Division of the Department of Commerce.

Features of the May export trade were heavier shipments of automobile casings and other tires, rubber belting, and record-breaking shipments of rubber soles and heels, which combined with the continued activity in other lines resulted in total shipments of rubber products valued at $3,669,432 as compared with $3,431,676 in May, 1923.

For each previous month of 1924 the total value of exports has been less than in the corresponding month of 1923, owing to the depressed conditions in the tire trade. Present indications point to recovery in this trade.

The value of May exports of tires and tire sundries increased $226,824 above April, the May total being $2,113,602.

B., Boston; Yost, Anna, Everett, and to all other persons interested in certain sums of money deposited in the North End Savings Bank, located at Boston, in said County, to the credits of the persons above named, in the amounts set forth in the hereinafter described petition: Whereas, JAY R. BENTON, Attorney General of said Commonwealth, has presented to said Court, his petition representing that for more than thirty years previous to the date of said petition no deposit has been made on any of the said accounts, nor has any part of the principal or interest of any of the said accounts been withdrawn, and no interest has been added upon any of the pass-books, that said deposits have remained during said period unclaimed, nor is any claimant known, and that the depositors of said amounts cannot be found, and praying that this Court, in accordance with the provisions of G. L., c. 168, s. 42, order and decree that said sums of money, with the increase and proceeds thereof, be paid to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Boston, in said County of Suffolk, on the fourth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to the North End Savings Bank, fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Boston Herald and the Boston American, newspapers published in Boston, the first publication to be sixty days at least before said Court, and the last publication to be twenty-one days at least before said court. Witness, WILLIAM M. PREST, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

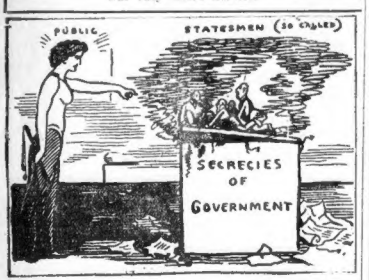
She Would Like to Know

But They Won't Let Her



She'll Make Them Open That Box, SOME Time—But Not Yet

Politicians, who sometimes call themselves statesmen, all agree on ONE thing, that the public isn't entitled to know ANYTHING about its own affairs.

Citizens should mind their business, each in his own little corner of the United States, and leave it to wise statesmen to select candidates, write platforms and decide what the people need. That's the firm belief of the professional politician.

And that's how it is run now, and has been run for many a year. But it won't be run that way ALWAYS.

In this little picture, Mr. Young has wisely represented the public as a woman with a cat o' nine tails in her hand. Woman is really PART of the public now. She CAN VOTE.

Possibly with women voting, men and women discussing things together, and prices rising, the day is not far away when self-styled statesmen and corrupt bosses will get off the lid and let the people know what actually goes on inside the government box.

You will be able to watch how the thing is done in the New York convention. And all you will know is that you, and about 111 million others, have nothing at all to do with choosing your candidate.

Bryan, Good Citizen and Good Reporter

Boston American Will Get SINCERITY From Him

We congratulate all you readers of the Boston American upon the fact that William Jennings Bryan, over his own signature, is letting you know about the Democratic Convention and what he thinks about it.

For whether or not you agree with Bryan or his policies, whether or not you are grieved or pleased because he has always been beaten for the Presidency, you are glad to read what he writes. You know that you are reading the writings OF AN HONORABLE AND COURAGEOUS MAN.

Mr. Bryan knows American politics and American politicians.

He knows the Wall Street crowd. They beat him in a way that they thoroughly understand, but he also has beaten them occasionally in a way that puzzles them.

His interests are the interests of a hundred million people in this country, as HE understands them.

His reputation and influence have lasted through a political career of nearly forty years—you can't mention anybody else of whom the same can be said so emphatically.

Mr. Bryan went to New York as a delegate-at-large from the State of Florida, elected by more than 85,000 votes, his nearest competitor, who happened to be on the ticket with Mr. Bryan, getting 43,000 votes.

Mr. Bryan ran ahead of McAdoo, for whom the State delegation is instructed. He ran more than 100 per cent. ahead of Underwood and 160 per cent. ahead of all others on the ticket with him.

A tribute from the great State of Florida is a tribute primarily to Mr. Bryan's dignified position as one of the foremost citizens of the United States. It is proof, also, of the fact that the citizens of Florida know and honor a courageous, honorable man, are glad to welcome him and to have him represent them.

They Puzzle La Follette

Telling His Deep Thoughts

The newspapers are telling what La Follette thinks. One railroad man, whose conversation does credit to his imagination, says La Follette is not only trying to ruin the railroads of the United States, but to make all property COMMON property. That will surprise La Follette, who thought he was only trying to make of railroads the servants of the people instead of having the people, as they are just at present, the servants of the railroads.

To say that La Follette wants to seize all private property because he would regulate railroads is like saying that a policeman wants to put everybody in jail because he locks up a couple of burglars.

Those White Collar Men

Let Them Also "Dig"

Mr. Head, president of the American Bankers' Association, tells Iowa bankers that "white collar men" will revolt. They will rebel against higher wages paid to organized labor, and low wages paid to those with white collars around their neck.

Instead of rebelling against high wages of men that earn every dollar they get, the white collar gentlemen might find some way of improving their own condition. No American will make himself better off by diminishing the prosperity of some other American, whether it be the head of the biggest concern, or the union man walking the railroad track.

Summer love is so seldom lasting—perhaps because it is just the "half-baked" kind that is produced by the quick flame of passion or infatuation instead of by the slow fire of devotion.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

TODAY I paused in life's swift pace and stood a little while, turning with longing, backward face to glimpse my Happy Isle, that precious time so ringed about with days forever fled that those dead seasons shut me out as though I, too, were dead. For once that Happy Isle was sweet with all youth's glowing flowers: hope blossomed brightly at my feet like buds in Summer hours. Along its fragrant pathways strayed fair forms for dreaming eyes, and rainbow tints of promise played across its tranquil skies. Oh, Happy Isle of Other Days, beyond Time's having tide, how gaily to my wistful gaze your gallant banners ride! Could I but tread your paths again, how gladly would I turn my steps from worldly pomp and pain, from powers that blight and burn! Then I would hear the joyous sound of fancy's airy time, and walk on youth's enchanted ground beneath the Springtime moon. And yet, today a robin's song came drifting through my door, and music carried me along to fields I know of yore! Today a little, vagrant breeze told tales of Summer land and in I saw cloud-Argosies above a silver strand! Today a youth and maiden went along the crowded street and straight I breathed the old content, glimpsed life serene and sweet! My golden days of Long Ago drift far across Time's tide, but still, wherever I may go, bright memories abide. And so, although my Happy Isle lies far and far away, its joys my weary hours beguile, its bliss returns today.

Pleads For Mother

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing for my mother who has six children and finds it hard to get along. My father is working only two days a week. The children are a baby boy, four years old, a little girl six, three boys, eight, ten and thirteen and I am eleven myself. My mother wears size 40 in clothes and size 5 in shoes. My father wears size 38. He has been sick for the past three years, and if anyone can help us we will be glad.

THERESA.

Would Help Girl of 8

Editor Helping Hand:

I think you are doing such wonderful work that I would love to help. I have seven little ones, but I could help a little girl of eight years old. I would like to send her some dark dresses for vacation, which I shall make for her if you will send me her address.

MRS. M. L. F.

Thank you. We think you are pretty clever to find time to sew for others when you have seven of your own. Mrs. F. D. B., whose address has been sent you, will be grateful for all you can do.

"Five of Us" in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

Our daddy has been gone since April and mother has to work to keep us in food. Grandma helps some, but she is poor, too, and needs all she has. There are five of us, two sisters, five years old and six months, and two brothers, three years old and two. I am thirteen. I'm too young to earn anything, but I help at home. I need pants and blouses and the boys need rompers and the girls dresses. We have plenty of underwear.

Ten-Year-Old Pleads

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please help me. My mother's shoes are gone. She wears 5 or 5½ high shoes, and 23 or 40 dress. I was ten years old the twentieth of June and I wanted a bicycle very bad. My mother couldn't get it. My stepfather hasn't steady work, and there are four boys, 10, 8, 5 and 2 years old. Do you think any boy has a bicycle he has outgrown he would give to me? I am a big boy for my age.

JOHN.

Wants Sewing to Do

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband has been out of work for a month and I would like to be of some help to him. I cannot work hard myself, as I have a lame leg. I can sew and mend anything. I have a sewing machine and would appreciate work to take home. Our bills are climbing up and I would like to be able to pay them. My girl of ten, who is very much underweight, requires special care.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON FARMING PROBLEMS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE of the most important matters is the relief of the farmers. Many farmers, especially the Northwest wheat farmers, are losing their farms for debt.

In 1922 the wheat farmers had an average of only $33 each, besides that part of their living which they raised on the farm. More money is invested in farms than in all the factories, stores, banks, railroads and mines put together. The whole country agrees with the President when he said, in his first Message, that the farm is "a public necessity, and must be preserved and afforded every facility for regaining prosperity."

The McNary-Haugen Bill is intended to help the farmers. It would create a corporation that would have $200,000,000 of money, and power to borrow $1,000,000,000 more.

The object of it is to keep the price up of wheat, rice, corn, flour, cattle and meat products by selling them abroad.

Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon introduced the Farm Relief Bill into the Senate. He is a member of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and four other Committees.

Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa introduced the same bill into the House. He is a Republican, sixty-five years old, and has been in Congress twenty-five years. He is Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture.

The Farmers' National Council has worked hard against the McNary-Haugen Bill. It says it would help the packers and graziers, but would hurt the farmers and purchasers of farm products.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, thinks the bill will raise the cost of farm products for all of us, and on that account will raise the cost of what the farmer buys. For that reason he thinks it will leave the farmer no better off than he is now, but will really hurt him.

Although many of our farmers are better off than they were before the Great War, many others are much worse off. Many banks have failed in the Northwest as the result of their poverty.

It is a question to be decided by Congress whether farmers will be left to help themselves, or whether Congress can help them. It is a question also to be decided by the same body whether it pays to help any class of citizen.

There is no doubt that farmers will be helped by a more suitable currency, and by better markets everywhere. Just how to help them is the problem before the country.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON TELLING TIME

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"1—When is the middle of the night? Kindly express the hour.
"2—When does evening begin, and when does it end?
"3—When does day begin?
—E. E. M. S."

UNDOUBTEDLY there is sufficient ambiguity of definition and variety of usage in regard to the most common and convenient subdivisions of the hours of daylight and darkness to warrant your inquiries.

Midnight as shown by clocks and watches no longer corresponds, as the first users of the terms naturally intended that it should do, with the exact middle of the night. Under the system of standard time now in use, the variation of real midnight from the midnight hour shown by a time-piece depends upon the observer's location with reference to the nearest standard meridian. If you live exactly on a meridian, true noon and true midnight will usually occur quite close to the corresponding hours indicated by your standard time watch. But if you live half way between two meridians there will be a discrepancy of at least as much as half an hour, true midnight following standard midnight or preceding it, according as you take your time from the meridian next west or the one next east of the place that you occupy.

And when you use daylight saving time you are thrown a whole hour, in addition away from the true moment of midnight or of noon. About the time of the Summer solstice, June 21, the length of night, from sunset to sunrise, in the middle latitudes of the United States, may be called nine hours.

By true local time, midnight then occurs four and one-half hours after sunset and an exactly equal time before sunrise. At that moment the sun is on the meridian under the horizon opposite to his position on the meridian above the horizon at noon. But, saying nothing of the smaller shift produced by adjustment to mean time and standard time, if the clock is set to daylight saving time, the sun does not cross the midnight line until an hour after the fictitious midnight shown by the clock. The first "half" of the night is shortened to three and one-half hours, while the second "half" is lengthened to five and one-half hours. I do not mention this to combat the use of daylight saving time, which is very suitable for all who like it, but simply to show some of the curious effects of the various demands of our civilized life. Real midnight only occurs when the sun is crossing the observer's meridian between the north or celestial pole and the nadir, just as real noon only occurs when the sun crosses the observer's meridian between the southern horizon and the zenith. I call the one "12 o'clock midnight" and the other "12 o'clock noon," if I wish to mention the hour at all, which, of course, is unnecessary.

The term "evening" is very ambiguous and has no place in astronomical terminology, though sometimes used in a popular sense, as when speaking of "evening stars." "Evening," I was taught, meant the time between the beginning of twilight and a boy's bedtime. When there was company we found to our joy that "evening" sometimes lasted until 9 or 10 o'clock. I have known the term to be applied so as to include also the whole afternoon after the hot hours are past. Many people understand by evening the first half of the night.

The word day is used in two senses. The astronomer means by a day the whole of the twenty-four-hour period supplied by the earth in making a single rotation on its axis. His day begins at night when the vernal equinox is on the meridian. But in popular usage, day is distinguished from night by the possession of sunlight. Conventionally, day begins at sunrise and closes at sunset, but the long bright twilights of midnight and evening practically extend its reign by furnishing an illumination by sunlight reflected from the atmosphere while the sun is below the horizon. The astronomer also uses the solar day, but counts its hours from 0 to 24, and hitherto he has started it at noon instead of midnight. But next year the astronomical solar day will, like the "civil" day, start at midnight.

Once-Overs

Since Your Mind is Under Your Control, Use It to Think Worth-while Things.

Perhaps for years you have been spending your thinking time indulging such pleasure as children have when they imagine themselves great personages.

As you lie in the hammock, or in your easy chair, resting and relaxing, what course does your mind pursue—to what does your mind revert?

Is it anything which an adult should think about?

Is it not true that much of your thinking is done about subjects that you would be ashamed to talk of to your friends.

How long have you been going along this way?

Probably you have no idea what effect it is having upon you.

You may be like the one who wrote, pleading to be told of some means by which it could be made possible "to think of something useful and practical for half an hour."

Such a letter proved that the person had wasted time on trivial, foolish things, building air castles rather than planning how to make them come true.

Are you going to follow such a course?

Your mind is under your own control.

Using its power increases its strength. Think worth-while things.
